MUSSOLINI GEARS UP WAR MACHINE

First Time In Service Uniform

Appearing in service uniform for the first time since the outbreak of war, Lord Tweedsmuir is shown here inspecting troops in Ottawa. Special shoulder badges and collar tabs decorated with oak leaves in silver denote the insignia of his rank. This uniform, it is understood, is worn only by the governors-general of Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Canada and the Viceroy of India.

Mass Bombing Raids Wait Development Convoy Plan

LONDON, Nov. 6.—British military experts predicted today that large-scale, long-range bombing attacks in the second great war would await development of "distance" fighting convoys.

These sources contended that Germany's few "exploratory" raids on Great Britain's naval bases had proved that bombers not in convoy were too vulnerable to fast attack planes for profitable mass bombing forays.

The average modern fighting plane—that of any nation—is said, might have a range of 650 miles without refuelling. It is about 300 miles from the British Isles to Germany. This is too far, it was said, for a safe margin for maneuvering of invading fighting planes.

BLOW TO GERMANY

The predictions were voiced as Britain prepared to take full advantage of the United States' vast industrial resources, a reservoir opened to the allies by congressional repeal of the arms embargo. The embargo repeal was hailed by the press as a blow to Germany and as a decided advantage to the allies.

Plans to raise cash by means of a public loan, to purchase planes and munitions in the United States, are under study by treasury officials. It is expected the government will ask parliament this week for power to issue a war loan, the first of the war. Some observers have put the probable borrowing figure at £250,000,000 ($1,117,500,000).

Canada is expected to figure largely in Britain's financing of Britain Buys Canada's Lead, Zinc Output

LONDON, Nov. 6. — The British government has arranged to purchase Canada's entire output of lead and zinc for the duration of the war after all Canadian demands are met. The Ministry of Supply, in making the announcement today, gave no details and would not amplify its brief statement.

PARLEYS OPEN ON EMPIRE AIR TRAINING PLAN

Negotiations Will Present Many Difficult Features

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 6—Negotiations regarding the Empire air training scheme begin here today with representatives of Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Canada sitting around the conference table.

Hitherto there has been much publicity stressing the importance of the scheme and many challenging statements respecting the number of airmen to be trained. Prevailing forecast places this number as high as 25,000 per year.

It is plain from informal discussions that the negotiations will present many difficult features. The understanding is that Canada will provide the physical equipment for training and the associated governments will pay to Canada the cost of training their men. This cost, presumably, will be calculated per man.

VITAL FACT

But it is equally plain that the cost of training a man cannot be calculated unless agreement is reached as to the time in which the capital investment in training fields and equipment is to be paid. If the

FRENCH PURSUIT PLANES DOWN 9 GERMAN CRAFT

PARIS, Nov. 6—The French high command announced tonight that French pursuit planes had downed nine German planes, part of an enemy squadron of 27. The French planes returned to their base without loss.

The aerial battle was provoked by the French fliers, who attacked despite the three-to-one numerical superiority of the enemy, according to the official communique.

"There was great activity by both air forces," the communique said. "In the course of a violent air battle nine French pursuit planes attacked a group of 27 German planes. Nine of the latter were brought down, at least seven of them on our territory. Our patrol returned complete and unharmed."

CONTINENTAL BLOCKADE IS GERMAN AIM

Attempting To Close European Supply Sources To Allies

PARIS, Nov. 6—French economic experts said today Germany is attempting to close European supply sources to Great Britain and France in hope of offsetting the allied blockade and the United States' repeal of the arms embargo.

They expressed skepticism, however, whether Germany could organize such a "continental blockade."

Germany would corner the economic aid of the neutral nations of Europe if she succeeded, they declared, since the plan envisages a bloc including Soviet Russia. The Netherlands, Italy and the Scandinavian and Balkan nations, all pledged to trade exclusively among one another.

AMOUNTS INSUFFICIENT

But if the entire group joined, the experts said, it was doubtful whether the plan could prove fully successful since those nations lacked sufficient amounts of such prime materials as cotton, tin and oil products.

The newest military action, meanwhile continued on the centre of the French Forbach Salient, almost halfway between the Maginot line and the German industrial city of Saarbruecken.

ARTILLERY ACTION

The morning communique said there had been artillery action "at several points of the front."

German howitzers, in four consecutive days, had dropped about 300 shells on Forbach, Saaregumines and on French lines farther east toward Bitche on the Rohrbach

BRITAIN HAS LOST 55 SHIPS OFFICIALS SAY

Despite Losses Naval Aides Insist U-Boat Campaign Unsuccessful

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 6—Britain has lost 55 merchant ships aggregating 238,793 tons since the outbreak of war, the admiralty announced today. That represents 1½ per cent of Britain's total merchant fleet.

French losses have been seven ships of 47,933 tons aggregate, while neutral nations have lost 34 ships of 93,823 tons.

Despite these losses naval authorities insist Germany's U-boat campaign has been unsuccessful, since the first few days of the war when submarines caught unprotected vessels on the sea lanes.

An admiral said today "German's determination to stop British and neutral ships trading into British ports has failed signally."

He went on to say that while British ships still ply the seven seas, Germany's merchantmen were confined to the Baltic.

The admiral's view of the war saw the biggest losses to U-boats in the first week British lost 11 ships of 64,000 tons. The second week 16 ships of 67,000 tons. Since then the weekly totals have dropped steadily. In the last week three ships, of 18,000 tons aggregate, have been torpedoed.

At the outbreak of the war Britain had 18,500,000 tons of merchant shipping, so losses through submarines and mines have not greatly damaged her, let alone crippled her. Ship-building yards all along the coast are working 24 hours a day to make up for the losses.

ALLIES PREPARED TO CONVOY SHIPS FROM AMERICA

British United Press

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Great Britain and France today announced a plan of joint action to guard ships carrying American war cargoes across the Atlantic.

The plan, worked out by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, and Cesar Campinchi, French navy minister, and Vice-Admiral Francois Darlan, chief of staff of the French navy, is designed specifically to overcome the threat of German submarines and warships.

The first ships to leave New York with armaments, particularly airplanes, will be convoyed by Allied warships the entire distance to "prove," it was said, that Britain and France control the seas.

It was reported, however, that the German fleet has been ordered to "group" U-boats and raiders in two main zones of operation in the Atlantic—one off the Gulf of Mexico to interrupt neutral and Allied shipments of oil, and the other in the North Atlantic to intercept freighters in the way the Deutschland captured the City of Flint.

Negotiations Of Viceroy Snagged But Not Dropped

British United Press

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Negotiations between Lord Linlithgow and native party leaders regarding India's political future were stalemated today, but the viceroy reported to London that he was "not prepared to accept this failure."

The Indian office issued a statement by Linlithgow reporting that his discussions with representatives of the Congress party and the Moslem League in an attempt to break the political deadlock "have not ended in agreement."

"All I must say now is that I am not prepared to accept this failure," the viceroy said. "I propose in due course to try again in consultation with the leaders of these great parties and princes to see if even now there may still be possibility of securing unity."

FARMER FREED OF BLAME FOR MAN'S DEATH

Former Inmate Of Mental Home Slain In Wild Struggle

A coroner's jury brought in a verdict at an inquest at Evansburg Saturday absolving Harvey Wilson, 25-year-old Evansburg farmer, from all blame in connection with the shooting and killing of William Edward Easkins at Wilson's farm home last Friday, according to word reaching Edmonton.

The jury decided that Easkins was killed when a rifle accidently discharged during a struggle in which Wilson fought to prevent Easkins from entering his home, 10 miles north of Evansburg.

According to evidence brought out at the trial, Easkins was a former inmate of the Ponoka mental hospital. The jury was told that Wilson and Easkins had been enemies for some time. No reason for the enmity was given at the inquest. The Wilsons claimed that Easkins had been hanging around their home for two or three days prior to the shooting.

Number Of Italo Army Effectives To Be Increased

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

ROME, Nov. 6.—Benito Mussolini geared up his war machine today to handle any emergency in Italy's spheres of influence in the Mediterranean and the Balkans.

He ordered Gen. Ubaldo Soddu, new under-secretary of war, to increase the number of army effectives and recruit 1,500 subalterns from the reserve force for the regular army.

He granted Gen. Pietro Badoglio permission to remain chief of the general staff although he had reached the retirement age of 68, indicating that he approved of Badoglio's tactics in the Ethiopian campaign—use of light mobile forces with great striking power.

He conferred two hours yesterday with Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, who collaborated with Badoglio in Ethiopia and was appointed chief of the army staff in the last week's shake-up.

NEW EQUIPMENT

It was reported that Mussolini and Graziani had discussed types of new equipment to be bought with part of the $882,338,000 fund set aside for the development of the armed forces.

Gen. Giovanni Gangemi, of the blackshirt militia, was named inspector of Fascist organizations abroad; Gen. Roatta, Italian military attache at Berlin, was made under chief of state.

Yesterday was observed as "Preparedness Sunday" and the 35,000-ton battleship Impero, third of four new battleships of

CANADA WILL TURN BANKER FOR BRITAIN

Sunday Times Says Dominion To Play Part In Financing

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Canada will become not only the Empire's air training base and an important munitions centre during this war, but also in large part Great Britain's banker, the Sunday Times predicted yesterday.

At first Canadian war materials will be paid for in cash, the long article foretold, then by transfer back to Canada of British-owned stocks and bonds of Dominion industries, and ultimately, by Canadian loans to the British government.

LEND STRONGER AID

Editorial comment in the London Sunday papers was largely devoted to contributions of the various dominions to Empire defence. Their recent industrial growth, the editorials agreed, will make the dominions even stronger buttresses of the Empire than in the last war.

The Sunday Times article said, in part:

"The establishment of Canada as the air training centre for the Empire is a logical consequence of a number of factors: First, Canada's record in the air; second, its industrial capacity; third, its nearness to American supplies

NORSE SPURN NEW PROTEST ON U.S. SHIP

City Of Flint Expected To Leave Cargo and Return Home

By ETIL RESSELT
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 6—Norway today rejected a new German protest against release of the freighter City of Flint to her American crew, and there were increasing indications that the ship would leave her cargo here and return home.

Norway continued to maintain that Germany had no legal right to the ship when the German prize crew took it into port at Haugesund and that she is now free to go wherever the Americans want to take her.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, U.S. minister to Norway, who conferred here with Capt. Joseph A. Gainard of the City of Flint, also said that the ship is now free.

VIOLATED RULES

In a radio talk to the United States carried by the National Broadcasting Company, Gainard made an important disclosure which was expected to bolster the Norwegian contention that the German prize crew commander violated international rules when it put the City of Flint into Haugesund.

He said the Flint went into Haugesund in compliance with instructions that were shouted by the commander of the German merchant ship Schwaben. The Schwaben, circled around the Flint, he said, and as soon as they approach-

JAPAN PLANS TO SEEK FRIENDSHIP WITH AMERICANS

By H. O. THOMPSON
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

TOKYO, Nov. 6.—The establishment of a new government in China will remove "some of the reasons for friction with the third power," it was announced today as Japan continued to seek better relations with the United States.

The foreign office spokesman announced that the Japanese ambassador-at-large, Kensuke Horinouchi, in charge of matters dealing with China, has left for Shanghai with orders to negotiate with American consular officials along constructive lines.

At the same time, the new Russian ambassador, Constantin Smetanin, came here with an entourage that included a military attache. It was the first time that Russia has been represented here fully in 18 months. The action was taken to be a follow-up of Soviet Premier V. M. Molotov's announcement that Russo-Japanese relations were to be improved.

Patronage Is Still Operative Manion Claims

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Claiming that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's pledges to banish patronage during the war were being carried out, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, national Conservative leader, declared today that unless patronage is stopped he will bring it before parliament at the next session.

Mr. Mackenzie King last week stated that if Dr. Manion had any specific charges and would give him details, he would have them investigated.

Today's War Analysis

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
British United Press Cable Editor

OPERATIONS on the West Front were centered today on an apparent German effort to drive the French out of the Forbach - Saarguemines sector along the Saar river.

The movement may be the most important of the war so far, although in no sense the start of a general German attack along the front.

Its importance lies in Germany's need for supplies of steel and coke from the Saarbruecken industrial region, which the French have cut off. No smoke has risen from the Saarbruecken mills since the start of the war.

The French positions in the heights around Forbach completely dominated Doubruecken, across the frontier. The Germans evacuated the town two months ago.

The French so far have respected Saarbruecken itself, although their guns could destroy it. The reason is that Germans could destroy the towns of Forbach, Saarguemenes, Strasbourg, Colmar and Mulhouse, all of which, evacuated of the civilian population, lie within range of the German artillery.

By what seemed to be mutual agreement, the Germans refrained from trying to blast the French towns off the map. Now, however, the pinch of the blockade and the opening of American munitions and supplies to the Allies makes it advisable for the Germans to resume production in Saarbruecken.

The French are in an exposed position at Forbach, which is on a peninsula jutting into German territory, and it is doubtful if they can defend it against strong attack.

French troops are still in Forbach, taking cover in deep entrenchments against the artillery fire of the Germans. Just as they made a strategic retreat from the Warndt forest, leaving Forbach exposed, so

AFTER two months of war in Europe it is now possible to review what has been recorded for history in terms of concrete facts. By discounting the propaganda and conflicting reports which have caused so much confusion, we see that the situation shakes down to 14 facts.

As everyone knows, the war had been brewing since the Munich agreement more than a year ago when Hitler and Chamberlain recorded "the desire of our peoples never to go to war with one another again."

But the actual blow-off came with a tangible development that you can get your teeth into—

FACT NO. 1

Communist Russia and Nazi Germany supposedly bitter enemies, signed a non-aggression treaty on Aug. 23 of this year. It was a complete reversal of their avowed principles both by Stalin and Hitler. The world was rocked back on its heels. Then came—

FACT NO. 2

On the same day (Aug. 23) Britain formally warned Germany through her ambassador to Berlin that she would fight for Poland. That belongs in the record because it shows that Hitler was forcefully warned that invasion of Poland meant war.

FACT NO. 3

Three days later Germany formally pledged to Belgium, Switzerland, Holland and Luxembourg that their neutrality would be scrupulously respected. Another matter for the record, if Hitler makes the much discussed flank attack on the Maginot line through those countries. (The present anxious defense preparations of Belgium and Holland do not imply much faith in Hitler's pledge of Aug. 26.)

On Sept. 1 Germany marched into Poland and calmly annexed Danzig

Allied Armies Work In Close Liaison on Western Battlefront

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES, IN FRANCE, Nov. 6.—I went to a part of our line today where some of our battalions are in touch with French troops. There seems to me a much closer liaison between the French and British armies than there was in the last war and certainly in this part of the line they are working in close touch with each other on a defensive front, as I was told by one of our divisional generals, who showed me his maps and the elaborate scheme of defense now being put into operation.

By day nothing much is apparent to the eye. Our men are mostly sleeping in their billets, but at night they get busy manning their forward posts, getting up their supplies and perfecting their state of readiness for any attack that may come later on.

It is cold work for them at night,

New Obstacles Put On Anti-Comintern Front Through War

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, Nov. 6.—Italy came to the eve of the second anniversary of her alignment with Germany and Japan in the anti-Comintern pact last night with the ideological alliance shaken by war in Europe and shifting political alliances.

Thus far the anniversary today has been ignored in Italy in contrast to the strongly anti-Bolshevist tone of the Fascist press a year ago.

Moreover, diplomats were speculating whether the alliance against the spread of Communism would survive the newly-launched collaboration between Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia.

The second anniversary of the pact finds Germany at war and receiving the aid of Russia whose leader, Joseph Stalin, is the supreme chief of the Communist International.

By contrast, it was recalled that when Adolf Hitler welcomed Italy into the pact two years ago he expressed satisfaction that the "Community of nations united in a defence against the Bolshevist world menace has been increased."

Diplomats observed that as a result of the Russian-German pact-up, Japan still was far from a proposed military alliance with either Germany or Italy. Foreign circles said the pact anniversary finds Italy in principle a good political friend of Germany and Japan but little more.

Spain, Hungary and Manchukuo also joined the anti-Comintern pact but the bonds with Germany appeared to many observers to have been loosened for them as well. It

C.C.F. PARTY WILL APPEAL FOR IMMUNITY

Say War Measures Act Denies Legislators Speech Freedom

VICTORIA, Nov. 6—Anti-activities Co-operative Commonwealth Federation circles said Sunday the question of immunity for members of provincial legislatures in their utterances on the floors of their respective chambers, will be brought to the fore in the British Columbia legislature today.

Harold Winch, house leader of the C.C.F. group of eight, said last Friday that immunity heretofore enjoyed by provincial legislators has been taken away by the Canada War Measures Act. Winch claims that only members of the House of Commons and Senate have immunity.

He was followed in the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne Friday by Mrs. Dorothy Steeves, C.C.F. member for North Vancouver. Her criticisms of British governments past and present brought an appeal from Premier Patullo that future speakers refrain from such criticism. He said recitation of such statements would force him to report the matter to Ottawa. He said it would be fortunate if Mrs. Steeves was living in a country where tolerance is enjoyed and he doubted that she would say as much as to the native Holland.

When the throne debate resumes today the speakers will be T. A. Shoppard, C.C.F. Delta, and Colin Cameron, C.C.F. Comox.

High C.C.F circles say that Cameron, British-born and with a four-year record in France in the First Great War, will touch on the present conflict. -

M.L.A.'s Not Immune, Authority Declares

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Members of provincial legislatures are not protected by parliamentary immunity against action or arrest for speeches in the house which might be considered detrimental to the conduct of the war, a government authority on parliamentary procedure said here last night.

Members have a right to criticize the policy set in the legislature and there is no specific rule concerning how far they may go, but immunity is not indefinite, he explained.

Parliamentary rules allow members to go to almost any length in criticizing the individual of a private party, but where the state's effort in a conflict is involved another position arises and the immunity ceases to be so elastic.

War Analysis

it is a question of whether they will try to defend the town, at the cost of perhaps tens of thousands of lives.

Also there is the possibility of devastating German artillery retaliation.

The French have confined their shelling in the area to roads, bridges and railways in the Saarbrucken valley, carefully avoiding Saarbrucken itself.

Hitler, immediately on his Reichstag speech that if the French drop a single shell into Saarbrucken, German guns will lay Strasbourg, Mulhouse and Colmar low. All are within easy range of the German artillery.

Hitler's present tactics convince the French more than ever that he will not try a general offensive this autumn. If he were going to, they argue, he would have done so before this.

What the Allies are wondering is whether Hitler, to keep his military prestige going in the west, will supplement his submarine campaign with an amazing aerial offensive against Britain.

Hitler could strike now with more probability of success than next year, by which time aerial reinforcements from the United States would have so strengthened the Allied air force that they would be able to ground the Nazi fleet.

Because Hitler has to make a showing, an aerial campaign is not out of the question. The Balkan situation is not favorable. They might take many months before it clears up so Hitler could accomplish anything there.

An argument against an aerial campaign is that it would lead to reprisals. Whoever starts it may be responsible for the British bombardment on both sides. Hitler has to figure on the reaction of the German people to have their Fatherland ravaged from the air.

That is why aerial warfare so far has been a mild give-and-take proposition.

14 Facts

by decree. Two days later, a fateful Sunday, Britain and France declared a state of war with Germany. Thousands of Americans will long remember the measured tones of Neville Chamberlain broadcasting the tragic news. For the first time in history, a declaration of war was made in word of mouth into the very homes of the people.

On the same day, point was lent to what was in effect the first sinking of the British passenger liner Athenia. That a German submarine torpedoed the ship by night was proved clearly enough to prevent the Germans from denying it, but the world in general accepted the disaster as the starting gun of almost unrestricted submarine warfare.)

FACT NO. 5

On Sept. 5, the United States declared a total embargo on the shipment of war supplies to the belligerents as required by the old Neutrality Act. The embargo was repealed two days later by action that may affect the course of the war.

FACT NO. 6

During this period, it was established beyond question that the Germans had designs toward all of Poland, causing frightful civilian casualties. President Roosevelt was more explicit. The German fuehrer, in extenuation, argued that they had warned the Poles such towns would have to be bombed if they were made lairs of military activity and attacks by Polish civilian snipers on German troops.

FACT NO. 7

On Sept. 17 Russia, spoofe of being a gyration, marched into Poland. (Maxim Litvinov, the chief spokesman of Russia's nonaggression attitude of faith, had been jettisoned months before.)

FACT NO. 8

On Sept. 19 Hitler, having grabbed Poland, tried to call off the war and pretended that he was accepting things as they were. He said in a speech at Danzig that he had no war aims against Britain and France and wanted lasting peace. The Fuehrer was an emphatic "no," with the added reminder that Hitler's word could be trusted.

FACT NO. 9

On Sept. 30, Germany gave official warning to Britain that her ships would be sunk without warning—Hitler's first formal notice of ruthless submarine warfare.

FACT NO. 10

On Oct. 5, Russia moved in on Latvia, following it later by signing up Lithuania and Estonia. On the same date occurred one of the most fantastic episodes of the war. The German high command and the White House that the American steamer Iroquois, carrying refugees, was to be blown up. What his motive was may never be known. The Iroquois made port safely.

FACT NO. 11

Next day, Hitler made a Reichstag speech, confident of victory or a fight to the end. He had no more luck than before, but it was a milestone marking his final desperate effort to pull himself out of a bad corner by that method.

FACT NO. 12

On Oct. 19, Russia and Germany got a bad jolt when Turkey, master of the Dardanelles and the entrance to the Black Sea, turned her back on that and signed a 15-year mutual assistance pact with Britain and France. The Balkans and the rest of Europe were greatly heartened.

(The City of Flint incident occurred next. Whether it is important or merely a spectacular side episode of the war is open to question.)

FACT NO. 13

On Oct. 31, two important events occurred. Mussolini shook up his cabinet in such a way as to leave little doubt that he did not intend to fight for Germany but to stay neutral and promote "Italy for the Italians."

Simultaneously, the Russian government, Molotov made a speech proclaiming Russia's intention of standing by Germany every way possible. He was not signed a 15-year mutual assistance pact with Britain and France. The Balkans and the rest of Europe were greatly heartened.

NEW INTEREST ATTRACTED TO BY-ELECTIONS

End Of Wartime Truce In Federal Politics Seen At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Nov. 6—An apparent ending of the war-time truce in the federal political field, revealed in an exchange of press statements last week by Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, brings fresh interest to the four by-elections scheduled for Dec. 18.

Dr. Manion issued a statement denying an imputation he said existed in the public mind that his party was being consulted by the prime minister on Canada's war policies.

SPECIFIC DETAILS ASKED

The Conservative leader also charged party politics were influencing granting of contracts although the prime minister had assured him there would be no patronage connected with Canada's war effort.

Mr. King replied that he would consult the opposition leader upon the occasions arise and demand but responsibility for the war was too important to be shared. He also asked Dr. Manion to give him details of any specific instances of patronage in war contracts or appointments, pending which he then immediately investigated.

Dr. Manion has not yet indicated whether or not he would make specific charges but it is believed he may either do so now or when parliament meets January 25.

The four by-elections set for Dec. 18 are in the two Montreal ridings of Jacques Cartier and St. James, in Kent county, Ontario, and Saskatoon. All were held by Liberals.

ACCLAMATION LIKELY

It was generally believed these seats might be allowed to go by acclamation in view of the fact a general election is almost certain to be held next summer.

In Kent, the Conservative association has indicated a willingness to give an acclamation to Col. J. L. Ralston, finance minister, if he chooses to be the Liberal candidate there.

Col. Ralston, appointed early in September to succeed former Finance Minister Dunning, resigning who resigned, has no seat in the House of Commons.

No dates have been fixed as yet for the by-elections due in Bonaventure, Drummond - Arthabaska, Kindersley and Prince.

The Quebec seat in Kindersley was created by resignation of O. B. Elliott, Social Credit member, making way for Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of the New Democracy movement to seek a seat in the House of Commons.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Responsible government sources said today that Germany had been informed that the American freighter City of Flint, taken away from a Nazi prize crew by Norway, would sail immediately for the United States with its cargo.

Nazi quarters admitted that the Norwegian communique on the subject constituted "a more or less flat rejection" of the German protest against losing the ship, and it was reported that diplomatic discussions with Norway were continuing.

Newspapers generally avoided the subject but continued angry protests against the lifting of the United States arms embargo.

It was charged that the act would spread rather than limit the war and that it was motivated by an American lust for profits.

Minority Rights Given Russians In Bessarabia

British United Press

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 6.—The government has granted minority rights to the Russians in Bessarabia, the district formerly belonging to Russia.

As in the case of the German and Hungarian minorities in Transylvania, the Russians will not be permitted to form their own political party, but may enjoy the same privileges as Rumanians in the National party. Some Russian leaders already have joined the National party.

hanging around again," said Wilson in giving evidence. "My wife and I had been told that he was threatening to get us. We were afraid of him, but didn't report him because he had never actually done us any harm."

"On Friday morning I got up at 6 a.m. The dog was barking again and my wife said that she would go to the door to see who was around. She went to the door, in the half-light of the early morning. Easkins coming toward her with what she thought was a gun in his hand."

"I'll get you this time," he shouted. My wife slammed the door and screamed that Easkins had gone. coming after us." She ran for her baby and with the child in one arm seized a rifle from the wall with the other."

RIFLE READY

"I was so excited I didn't know what to do. I saw Ed had something in his hand which I thought was a gun. (Later evidence disclosed that it was a double-barrel shot gun, which Easkins was using as a club.) I grabbed the .22 from my wife with my right hand as I put my left shoulder to the door. I asked Ed what he wanted. He replied, 'I'll get you this time.' Then I found that I could not hold the door any longer. I faced him with the gun held vertically in my right hand, my hand gripping the breech.

"I struck with my left fist in his right shoulder. He seized the gun with his left hand as I let go. I let go of the gun as he reached for my throat. The gun went off and the bullet hit Easkins. He went down on my back on the ground with Ed choking me.

ATTACKER SHOT

"When I finally managed to free myself, I saw that Ed had been shot and was bleeding from the neck," Wilson said.

Following the shot, Mrs. Wilson picked up her baby and ran about 150 yards to her father-in-law's house for help, according to the evidence brought out at the trial. George Wilson, Harvey's father, returned to find Ed, unconscious and Harvey in the act of picking him up to carry him to his father's house. Easkins died before first aid could be rendered.

Harvey Wilson reported the shooting to the R. C. M. P. who charged him with manslaughter.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner Dr. A. F. Chisholm of Evansburg.

plateau, in front of the Maginot line.

French observers said the Germans apparently were trying to detach Belgium from its French and French communications with Warndt Forest gun emplacements. But the French said they were maintaining a firm grip on the salient, commanding the forest and Saarbrucken, through the Spicheren spur and the forest built on hills about the cities.

NAZIS DRIVEN BACK

Military sources reported that German troops had occupied a small island in the Rhine only to be driven back to their own bank of the river by fire from heavy mortars.

A strong German force attempted to storm a French post in the Vosges mountains but after a brief counterattack halted it, these sources said.

The French sent three air patrols over German lines yesterday in an effort to determine German intentions. A high command communique in Berlin claimed a French plane had been shot down near Saarbourg-Montdidier.

INCREASING STEADILY

The French regarded German artillery activity primarily as a test, but also noted it was increasing steadily and was continuing on three sides of the French Forbach salient.

The weather still aided the French "sitting" strategy with heavy rains and high winds hampering German patrol manoeuvres. Rain and German planes also took advantage of clear intervals in the weather yesterday to make reconnaissance flights over enemy territories.

The important German flight, military dispatches said, was by a squadron of three planes which caused a series of alarms in northern France.

British and French reconnaissance flights penetrated deeper into Germany than the Germans were able to get into France, reliable sources said.

CANADA WILL TURN BANKER FOR BRITAIN

of engines, planes and technical experts; fourth, its comparative isolation from bombing raids.

"Canada has a role to play in supplying foodstuffs and raw materials, in manufacturing shells, motor cars, airplanes, ships and other equipment of war, in supplying troops for the front line and fliers for the fighting services. Further, she has a substantial responsibility for home defence and in contributing to the defence of Newfoundland and other British and French territories in North America.

BANKER FOR PURCHASES

"But in this war she has still another responsibility to carry; that of banker for a not insignificant portion of Britain's purchases.

"Great Britain has four ways of financing war purchases in Canada.

"She can do it by exporting to Canada. Her exports for 1939 cannot fully maintain British export irade when the United Kingdom is at war.

"She can pay in cash for her accumulated stocks of ear marked gold and foreign exchange balances in Canada. But Britain has an obvious interest in reserving as much as possible of her gold in North America for necessary buying in the United States, whose exchange is under both the Johnson war debts act and the neutrality act—cannot make loans.

MARKETABLE SECURITIES

"She can pay by selling back to the Canadian people some of their securities now held in Great Britain to the extent of $300,000,000 ($2,749,050,000). Included are upwards of £300,000,000 of easily marketable government and municipal and railway securities, in addition to large holdings of shares and bonds. Already Canada has called £20,000,000 in sterling stock for redemption in order to put Britain in possession of Canadian dollars. If Great Britain prepares to utilize any portion of the foreign investments of her citizens, the Bank of Canada could be expected to undertake the work of finding a market for Canadian issues among Canadian investors, thus making available large credit balances to the British government.

"But still a fourth means of financing British purchases in Canada is open to her—the establishment of credits by the Canadian government in favor of United Kingdom purchases.

"The possible extent of such credits no one can forecast. There are too many unknown factors such as the duration of the war, the ability of British buying in Canada, and the ultimate attitude of the United States during loans to Britain or Canada or both.

"But whatever is needed from Canada in the way of supplies during the Dominion stands ready to supply up to the limit of its resources."

Long-Range Plan Will Help Britain

OTTAWA, Nov. 6. — Canada's long-range plan to give financial assistance to Great Britain during the war involves repatriation of Canada's held securities in the London and, at a later stage, the granting of credits.

Financial authorities said here last night the granting of credits would include Canadian loans to the British government, as suggested by the London Sunday Times in an article.

The repatriation part of the plan has been under way since 1938 by a fund of approximately $91,000,000 provided when Canadian callable securities held in Great Britain were repatriated to assist in financing purchases by the war supplies mission now in Canada.

One of the most important tasks of the British mission here in Ottawa is to assure a flow of credits from Canada to back up the Allied war effort. When the repatriation plan is advanced as far as possible, it is likely consideration will then be given to other methods of obtaining credits such as through Canadian loans to the British government.

Social Credit M.P.'s Discuss Session Plans

Social Credit members of parliament will re-convene in caucus at the Legislative buildings Tuesday and complete discussions commenced last week, but adjourned over the week-end.

Program to be followed by the group at the next session of parliament will be under review, as will the alliance between Social Credit and New Democracy forces.

Capt. Victor Quelch, M.P. for Acadia, will preside over the caucus. J. H. Blackmore, M.P. for Lethbridge, will attend, and the full complement of Social Credit members from Alberta and Saskatchewan will bring the attendance to 15.

It is likely that Premier William Aberhart and members of his cabinet will meet the caucus during at least part of its session.

Nine Norwegian Ships Lost Since Outbreak Of War

NO IMMEDIATE MASS BOMBING RAIDS PLANNED

the war. The Sunday Times said the senior Dominion, as well as being a source of munitions and men, also has another responsibility, "that of banker for a not insignificant portion of Britain's purchases."

Military experts studied the effects of the German air raids on the Firth of Forth and Scapa Flow and the British attacks on the German base at Kiel in predicting that mass bombing attacks were not an immediate possibility.

BOMBERS UNESCORTED

Generally the bombers were unescorted. From available accounts—British and German—one British expert said it appeared that only about one-third of the bombers were lost.

"This average," said the tactician, "was too high for really profitable operations when you consider the importance of machinery in such a war as this and the difficulties of replacement."

He added that "most of us believe that en masse long-range bombing will wait until the fighters can be used for staying abilities with the bombers."

MORE STAYING POWER

There were hints that steps are being taken in this direction. The Germans have expressed "considerable disappointment"—as he put it—that British planes being built now have more staying power than the German planes.

"At any rate you can say we aren't losing too much sleep about the attacks threats to 'rain bombs' on England,' he said.

Another development on the home front was the sloning of Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist, last night after the Fascist leader had told a crowd, "we want peace because we want to get on with our job of building up the British Empire." Sir Oswald was not struck although several persons were slightly injured.

The press today expressed satisfaction at the recent policies of neutral governments, particularly the United States, Russia and Finland.

BATTLE HAMPERED

"As long as neutral countries allow themselves to be intimidated by the Nazis," the News Chronicle said editorially, "the war will be fought against German aggression is bound to be hampered.

"Norway has set up a splendid example of courage and independence to the neutral world. Finland, too, is providing an impressive spectacle of firmness in the face of threats.

"Altogether, Scandinavia has every reason to be proud of the way it has spent its week-end."

(Norway Sunday interned a German prize crew which was sailing the captured American freighter City of Flint to a German port. The vessel was returned to its American crew.

(Finland in recent weeks has resisted Soviet Russian demands which include a proposed Russian military base on Finnish territory.)

The Daily Herald said: "In spite of the heat and fury of comment in Germany, observers in neutral correspondents in Berlin yesterday, many well informed persons in Germany think that Germans are really glad to be rid of the City of Flint.

"They think the City of Flint was taken into Haugesund because Nazi leaders did not want trouble with the United States and preferred to give the whole thing up as a bad job."

BURGOMASTER MAX IS DEAD AT AGE OF 70

BRUSSELS, Nov. 6. — Adolph Max, Burgomaster of Brussels, imprisoned by Germany during the first World War, who has held office continuously ever since, died today at the age of 70.

Max had been burgomaster of Brussels since 1909. He won world fame for his stubborn resistance to the German invaders in August, 1914. Refusing even to shake hands with the German commander, Max continuously protested infringement of Belgian civil right and slept in offices rather than surrender his authority.

In September the Germans arrested him and kept him as a German prisoner until the war was over. Max managed now and then to smuggle out messages to his city and with Cardinal Mercier was one of the leaders credited with keeping alive Belgian Nationalism during the German occupation.

Rejoicing greeted his return in 1918 to Brussels where he was known affectionately as "our Max" and was a familiar figure on the city's boulevards with his terrier "Happy."

U.S. Navy Will Recommission 2 Old Destroyers

British United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 — The navy has ordered two more of its old World War destroyers, the U.S.S. Mackenzie and Morris, recommissioned for neutrality patrol work. One-half of the 110 old destroyers tied up at the San Diego and Philadelphia navy yards at the outset of the current European war, now have been recommissioned for neutrality patrol duty.

Maine is the only state in the Union which does not touch more than one side.

Repatriation Is Difficult Due To Neutrality Act

British United Press

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The problem of repatriating 4,000 Americans from Great Britain and Northern Ireland was complicated today by the new Neutrality Act barring American ships from British ports.

It was believed arrangements might be made for American ships to stop at Eire to pick up the refugees. There are an additional 600 Americans in Eire waiting to get home.

PARLEYS OPEN ON EMPIRE AIR TRAINING PLAN

capital investment of, say, $700,000,000 is required, the vital fact in calculating training costs is to know how rapidly this capital sum is to be charged against the men who are trained. If the calculation is made on the assumption that the war is to last three years, and the war finishes in one year or less, there would be a very large loss to the country putting up the capital. On the other hand, if the total capital were charged against the first year's training, the cost per man would be very high in this period, although substantially lower thereafter.

Much has been heard, unofficially, during the past few weeks of the great asset which Canada will possess after the war is over. But Canadian officials do not seem to be much impressed with this point of view. In their opinion few of the 100 air fields which the scheme will require, according to unofficial information, will be of any service after the peace. There would be, say, 20 airdromes in Manitoba and as many in each of the other western provinces. These dromes will be located at small points such as, for example, Morden, Virden, Swan River, Headingly, and so on. They would never be required. It is said, for the Trans-Canada service, and so far as can be seen, would be of no use to civil aviation enterprises.

ACQUIRED BY CANADA

In the last war Britain really launched the air training establishments at Camp Borden and Trenton, and these were, later, acquired by the Canadian government. But both centres were not required for purposes of training a Canadian air force. Trenton was closed but Camp Borden has had to be substantially enlarged and improved in the past year.

If it is the desire of the representatives from other parts of the Commonwealth to calculate training costs on the assumption that Canada will absorb all capital costs and be the outright owner of the training fields and group equipment, the strain on the finances of this country might be great.

These are the considerations which the delegates will have to discuss in the conferences beginning today. It is not expected, here, that these negotiations will lead, immediately, to an agreement. It is believed that several days, perhaps longer, will be required.

R.A.F. TELLS OF BOMBING NAZI U-BOAT

Submarine Sunk By One Hit Out Of Two Salvoes

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A British Royal Air Force pilot reported that he had bombed a U-boat which presumably was sunk by one hit out of two salvoes.

The pilot's report was received by coastal command headquarters while the Dominions ministers who are consulting in England on defense measures were visiting there.

The signals from the pilot, in the combat language of the R.A.F., came in quick succession:

"From the pilot of aircraft No. —. '10:48 a.m. over enemy submarine in position . . . submarine diving. 'Have attacked. Estimate one hit."

The ministers then were treated to a detailed report:

"I first sighted submarine on surface two miles off the starboard bow. The submarine began to dive. I attacked downwind.

"The second salvo fell five yards short of the conning tower, which was still visible.

"Bomb splash and conning tower appeared to me to be on same spot. Sea very rough, with wind 30 miles an hour. All traces of submarine then lost."

The ministers also were handed a message reporting the discovery of a submarine by aircraft in the Atlantic.

A few minutes later a signal announced the aircraft had rolled up and destroyed which immediately changed course to contact and deal with the U-boat.

Province Buys "Royal" Shorthorns Mullen States

Purchase from the "E.P." ranch at Pekisko, owned by H.R.H. the Duke of Windsor, of two outstanding Shorthorn heifer yearlings, was announced Monday by Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture.

The two animals from the Royal ranch, Mr. Mullen said, would be added to the splendid Shorthorn herd already established by the government at Olds.

Mr. Mullen was back at his office Monday after visiting the Olds farm.

The two heifers purchased from the "E.P." ranch were bred from imported stock and are considered as among the best in the herd.

Purchase price was not disclosed.

that size, was christened at the Ansaldo shipyards outside Genoa.

All these preparations seemed pointed at Italy's interests in the Mediterranean and Balkans. The keynote of Italian Mediterranean policy was sounded by Foreign Minister Count Galeazo Ciano in his newspaper Telegrafo, which warned non-Mediterranean powers "to keep out of the Mediterranean. Italy asks the smaller Mediterranean countries not to be servants of powers foreign to the Mediterranean. . . . Italy feels justified in taking precautionary measures to protect herself against advances of consolidations of imperialisms foreign to the Mediterranean and against those Mediterranean countries who act as accomplices."

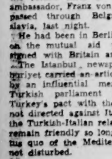

DIPLOMATIC ACTIVITY

Italian diplomatic activity was increasing in the Balkans, and has continued in the past few days and week-ends with Bulgaria and a friendly understanding with Greece. The effect on the Balkan situation lay presently with Turkey, however, and activity was expected to increase in Ankara with the return of Rene Massigli, French ambassador, Franz von Papen, who passed through Belgrade, Jugoslavia, last night.

He had been in Berlin consulting on the mutual aid pact Turkey signed with Britain and France.

The Istanbul newspaper Cumhuriyet carried an article yesterday by an influential member of the Turkish parliament saying that Turkey's pact with the Allies was not directed against Italy and that the "Turkish-Italian relations should remain friendly so long as the status quo of the Mediterranean was not disturbed.

DOMINION MAY BUY AIRCRAFT FROM STATES

Requirements For Great Air Training Scheme Must Be Secured

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Immediate steps looking toward purchase in United States of a portion of the great fleet of aircraft required for the Empire air training schools in Canada are expected by observers here as a result of removal of the U.S. arms embargo.

In the absence of any official statement, extent to which aircraft will be required for the training scheme is a matter for speculation. But it has been estimated at least 300 machines of various types will be immediately necessary for the initial effort.

START FORMAL TALKS

The British air mission, with representatives from Australia and New Zealand and under chairmanship of Lord Riverdale, will open formal discussions with the Dominion government on an agreement wherein airmen from all four countries will receive their advanced training here.

"Everything is going very nicely; we are well pleased with our progress," said Lord Riverdale last night.

He said nothing was settled about purchase of aircraft for the training scheme and would not discuss possibility of obtaining them in United States.

Schools will be set up all across Canada and airmen who have received their preliminary training at home, will come here for advanced training in preparation for active service and some estimates place the anticipated output at 25,000 airmen a year.

A quickening of developments in Canada's whole economic war effort is expected to follow closely upon action of the U.S. congress which throws open the resources of that country to belligerents in a position to pay cash and carry the goods away.

IMMEDIATE ORDERS

It is believed immediate orders will be placed for airplanes and parts, and that a purchasing mission, possibly combining British and Canadian activities, will be set up in Washington or New York.

GREEK STEAMER IS SUNK SUNDAY BY EXPLOSIONS

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The sinking of the 5,295-ton Greek freighter Nicolaos M. Embiricos in the English channel following two explosions was disclosed here Sunday with rescue of the crew of 27. She was carrying grain from Galveston, Texas, to Antwerp.

One lifeboat containing the captain and 14 members of the crew reached a lightship. The 12 others in a second boat were picked up by a Netherlands steamship. Cause of the explosions was not ascertained.

Prior to that sinking, the latest ships to go to the bottom were the 11,108-Ton Danish passenger liner Canara and the Norwegian freighter Sig. 1,342 tons.

France reported her freighter Baoule, 5,874 tons, had been torpedoed in the Atlantic with 33 men saved, two killed and 11 missing.

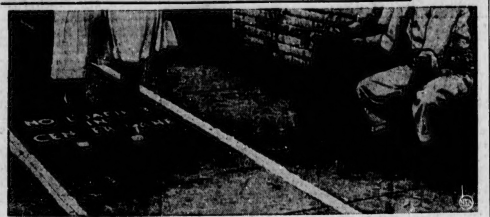

U. S. PLANNING BILLION-DOLLAR NAVAL PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 — The United States Congress will be asked in January to authorize a new $1,300,000,000 naval expansion program calling for 95 additional warships and about 2,400 more airplanes.

Chairman Vinson (Dem., Georgia) of the house naval committee Saturday explained the program provided for a 25 per cent increase in navy tonnage. The program calls for construction of three aircraft carriers, eight cruisers, 52 destroyers, 32 submarines and 31 auxiliary vessels—a total of 128 new combatant and non-combatant ships.

In addition to the new airplanes, the authorization would provide for 36 lighter-than-air ships, most of them expected to be blimps.

Woman Reporter Finds Happy Bunch of Sailors Aboard City of Flint

Editors Note: Soiseau Mowinckel, wife of the Norwegian correspondent of the Associated Press at Bergen, was the first person to interview crewmen aboard the City of Flint. Her story follows:

By SOISEAU MOWINCKEL

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 6—A mighty happy bunch of United States sailors called "Hello" when I clambered aboard the City of Flint Saturday morning. They had had enough of travel for the moment, after kicking around the North Atlantic and Arctic waters under a German crew.

One lad hanging overside joyfully painting the American flag insignia back on the liner's sides—the Germans covered all markings—best expressed the crew's reaction in answering my question, "How are you feeling?"

"HAPPY AS A LARK"

"It's fine now," he shouted back. "But I was scared stiff while the Germans were aboard. Now I'm happy as a lark."

The ship looked as if she needed a thorough cleaning up. She appeared a dirty black, with the only color her red funnel.

The first break in the routine of the voyage, the crew said, came on Oct. 9, when the German pocket battleship Deutschland halted and inspected the freighter, put aboard a prize crew, along with the crew of the sunken British steamer Stonegate.

The first stop was at Tromso, Norway, and then came the trip to Murmansk, Soviet Russian Arctic port, through cold and dangerous waters.

The Americans had the ship to themselves at Murmansk for several days. The Germans were taken ashore and interned for a time and then returned and the ship sailed again.

SAIL ZIZ-ZAG COURSE

Thereafter her progress was cautious until she arrived again at Tromso, where the German consul came aboard. Members of the crew said that after that the ship sailed a zig-zag course with Norwegian escort ships off the Norwegian coast.

The Americans said their biggest thrill was when the ship dropped anchor at Haugesund, Norwegian officials came aboard, removed the German crew and told the Flint's officers they were free to sail anywhere they pleased.

CAR'S PLUNGE INTO RIVER IS FATAL TO MAN

B.C. Man Dies Of Injuries —Two School Teachers Believed Drowned

NELSON, B.C., Nov. 6—Alfred Heath Sweeney of nearby Castlegar suffered fatal injuries and two women companions were believed to have drowned when his automobile plunged over a bank into the Kootenay river near Brilliant last night.

Sweeney died in hospital here shortly after the accident occurred. Information available here said Clara Stewart of Vancouver and Helen Lentsmen of Barons, Alta., teachers in rural Doukhobor schools in this district, were trapped when the automobile dropped into eight feet of water.

TWO ESCAPE INJURY

Police said Sweeney was found on the river bank, his clothes dry, soon after the accident.

The survivors told police the accident occurred while the car was backing to negotiate a difficult curve leading to a bridge. The river bank was 150 feet high at the point and observers from the road could see the auto lights burning through the water several hours later.

Sweeney died while being rushed to the Nelson hospital by Constable John Henry of the British Columbia police. He had been found halfway down the bank by three men who made their way to him after reaching the scene.

FATE IS UNKNOWN

Police said Sweeney, a Castlegar hotel employee, had met the teachers at a bus stop when they returned from a week-end in Nelson and was taking them to a house where they planned to pick up Wilma Milne, another teacher.

A Trail wrecking car went to the scene late last night, but at that time it was not known whether the missing teachers were still in the car or whether they had been swept down the river.

KING TOO BUSY TO PERFORM AS BEAUTY JUDGE

COLUMBIA, S.C., Nov. 6—King George is too busy to act as judge for the beauty section of University of South Carolina yearbook.

Editor Hubert Harmon asked aid of the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James in getting His Majesty to pick the pictures of the seven prettiest girls to be printed in the annual.

The reply:

"I am sorry to say that His Majesty, King George, will be unable to select the beauties for your annual. The King is very busy conferring with his ministers on the war situations and has no time for the lighter-if-finer things of life."

NAZIS STRAFE VESSEL'S DECK FROM AIRPLANE

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Captain F. C. P. Harris of the British steamship Clement Sunday confirmed reports it was sunk in the South Atlantic by the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer. He charged a plane from the battleship had strafed his craft without warning before it was sent to the bottom.

"On Sept. 30 I saw a man-of-war which I thought was British," Captain Harris said when he arrived here today. "It neared us up to four or five miles. A seaplane took off from the German ship and flew in our direction. Suddenly, without warning, it started strafing our deck with machine gun fire. I then realize it was a German pirate. Three times we encountered an assault. I cannot realize how I escaped death. The chief officer suffered a slight hand injury."

Germans placed on the Clement several bombs which did not explode and then shelled the ship, which sank, the captain said.

NAZI PLOT IS UNCOVERED IN SOUTH AFRICA

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 6—Vigilance of South African authorities has exposed an underground Nazi organization which has plotted national uprisings, and sabotage to factories and essential services, it was learned authoritatively Sunday.

The union government has for some time had its eye on Nazi activities in which German diplomats were involved. It forestalled an alleged rebellion and disturbance by expelling a number of ringleaders at the outbreak of the war, interning 200 others.

Those expelled included Dr. Lierau, former German consul-general at Windhoek; Herr Muller, former counsellor of the German legation; and Dr. Rudolf Leitner, former German minister to South Africa.

More than a year ago an organization called Auslands were known to control Nazi activities in the union and elsewhere, and was linked with German legations and consulates.

MARKETING OF WHEAT TALKED BY POOL HEADS

Complete Control Vested In Canadian Board Is One Proposal

Regina, Nov. 6—Program dealing with the marketing of wheat in view of war conditions suggested by the board of directors of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool was outlined and approved at the annual meeting of delegates Saturday.

Directors recommended complete control of the marketing of Canadian wheat should be vested in the Canadian Wheat board, because it was an important part of Canada's war effort to provide an assured supply of foodstuffs, since British grain markets had been closed and purchasing placed in the hands of a national purchasing board, and because "Of the impossibility of the futures market reflecting a proper price for Canadian wheat." The directors suggested that speculative trading should be suspended in Canada and the futures market closed.

SEEK FAIR PRICES

The directors also urged that the Canadian government negotiate directly with that of the United Kingdom to attempt to establish price levels for Canadian wheat which would bear a fair relationship to the cost of other commodities. Since 1926 levels were generally accepted as representing parity, the board urged that levels for that year be used to establish the price basis. Appointment of an advisory board, with adequate producer representation, was proposed to act with the wheat board in its market operations.

The program suggested by the directors and approved by the 160 delegates was considered at a meeting of directors of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba pools shortly after the declaration of war.

COARSE GRAIN POOL

Pool delegates agreed that the pool board, for the marketing of next year's crop, should make an application under the Agricultural Producers Co-Operative Marketing Act so that a coarse grain pool might be available to those growers who had marketable surpluses. A minimum price, guaranteed by the Dominion government, was desired.

A hundred and fifty dollars' worth of food easily can be produced by half an acre of garden.

wife of John Boettiger, publisher of the Seattle Post Intelligencer.

Mrs. Boettiger, who is a daughter of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, landed them on an eight-ounce fly rod, and spent 50 hectic minutes landing one of them — a 14-pounder. Another 14-pounder gave the bland, athletic Seattle matron a half-hour battle.

Frequent visitors to Vancouver Island and the Vancouver area of B.C., the Boettigers looked over the general territory of Cowichan and stayed up the lake at the comfortable Riverside Inn.

"I didn't manage to hook any", said publisher John Boettiger in a letter to George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau at Victoria. "But it was equally exciting for me to watch Ann. We will surely get up earlier next year."

Fishing on Vancouver Island is attracting much attention these November days. Big grilse and springs are running at nearby Brentwood bay and salmon are being taken on troll all along the coast and on many of the lakes and rivers. Trolling and fly fishing will be bigger attractions than ever this year, it appears, since many visitors from the prairies and eastern Canada will be wintering in this favored region.

High German Officer Believes Frontal Attack On Maginot Line Folly

COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 6. —Despite a popular impression in other parts of Germany that Adolf Hitler has decided to risk a western offensive now, it is far from certain this feeling is correct. There are indications Nazi higher-ups do not know what their next move will be or how the war will develop.

There are even some grounds for the belief Hitler is confident of German ability to hold out and may accept the British-French tactics of fighting a long, almost exclusive trade war entailing German attacks on British shipping and harbors.

A colonel-general, highly-placed in Nazi circles and well known abroad, said: "Only the Fuehrer knows whether it will come to a western offensive. And I don't know whether he knows yet."

Military men here in the west still express the belief it would be folly to attack frontally either the French Maginot line or the German Westwall as long as powerful armies occupy them.

Under these conditions, if a decisive victory is to be fought on land, the two heavily fortified bulwarks must be flanked.

To skirt the Maginot line the German army would have to go through Switzerland, Belgium or The Netherlands. Formal assurances have been given those neutral countries that this would not be done. Even disregarding these assurances, winter, with its rain, snow and mud, is setting in and would create difficulties for a major offensive through those countries.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING NEED IN WAR

Assures Greater Productivity, C.I.O. Leaders Maintain

OTTAWA, Nov. 6—Extension of collective bargaining between labor and employers is necessary to bring about greater productivity in Canada for the war effort and to avoid industrial strife, delegates at a national meeting of the Canadian division of the Congress of Industrial Organizations decided here Sunday.

The national committee reported it had "offered its co-operation to the government in its measures to defend itself against Fascist aggression," and was "ready to assist the wartime prices and trade board in a determined fight against profiteering."

FACILITATE ACHIEVEMENT

The report, which was adopted, also said "recognizing the need for increased national productivity during war times, labor seeks not to impede, but to facilitate this achievement. The national needs can be met only on a voluntary co-operative basis, which is possible only under conditions of industrial democracy."

The 107 delegates from eastern Canada represented 55,000 union members, the meeting was told. They pledged themselves to "fight to the limit against the efforts of those who are even now planning to use the national emergency to smash the labor movement." The meeting also approved plans to drive for increased C.I.O. membership in Canada.

No Distinction Made

The city has been informed that no distinction is made by Dominion relief authorities between employable and unemployable persons, the federal treasury contributing dollar for dollar with each province toward the cost of supporting all who are in necessitous circumstances.

What this means is that federal, provincial and municipal authorities have not yet got around to drawing the line between those on relief lists who are employable and those who are not. There are several reasons why this line should be drawn. One is that the volume of unemployment is exaggerated when relief figures are cited to show its proportions, since a good many of those on the lists could not be employed in the busiest times.

Meanwhile, no such distinction having been agreed upon, the city is urging its claim that the provincial treasury send along the $11,000 held back from the relief contributions for June and July. The point is more important than the figures indicate, because so far as known no action is being taken to segregate unemployables from employables and under this ruling a corresponding deduction might be expected from future contributions from the governmental treasuries.

Admitting the Fact

What official Berlin thinks about the action of Congress in lifting the embargo is neither very important nor at all surprising. The Nazi headmen are mad about it, and if they are trying to conceal the fact they are not succeeding at all. Early semi-official comment is in line with the advance notices of what it would be, and predicts a characteristic outpouring of incoherent abuse once the accredited spokesmen and bossed newspapers get their vocabularies loosened up.

The main line of "argument" is interesting, as a fresh out-cropping of the idea that the Nazi interests should take precedence over other considerations when any country shapes its national policies. The claim simply is that, since Germany is not in as good position to buy U.S. munitions, the Allies should not be allowed to buy. To sell to them in these circumstances is said to be unneutral, an act of partiality, and liable to "lead the United States into war."

The sufficient test of this claim is to ask when Germany refused to sell anything to one country because some other country could not buy.

The one possibly important feature of the outburst is the admission that because the embargo has been lifted the Allies will be better able to protect themselves and the common rights of nations. Once that admitted fact gets home to the minds of the masses in Germany it is liable to cause trouble for the war-makers.

Credit Due to Finland

Whatever may come of the protracted negotiations between Russia and Finland, the fact that they have been prolonged is in itself important. Either the Moscow demands were less drastic than those imposed upon the three smaller Baltic states, or Finnish resistance has been stiffer. That Russia, with an army massed on the border, has not translated threat into force, is some measure of assurance that Stalin does not plan to resort to war to promote his expansion policy.

Meanwhile, at the other end of the continent, the Balkan states have been quite plainly recovering from the jitters and developing a firmer intention to assert and defend their national rights against encroachment—by either the Nazis or the Soviet Union. Turkey gave them the lead when it refused to close the Dardanelles to all but Russian warships and thus make the Black Sea a closed area. The example stimulated Balkan independence, while the action gave the little nations a fighting chance to protect themselves by united action should any of them be assailed.

By no conceivable line of reasoning can Mussolini be supposed to be indifferent to the threat of Russian aggression in this area. He assuredly could not help Russia extend its power and influence over Italy's neighbors there, and it is scarcely less imaginable that he could stand idle while it did so. Old associations to the contrary, Italy's security demands that should a showdown come, Il Duce will take sides with the Balkan countries against molestation from Herr Hitler's new economic partner.

In risking attack while it held out for its own rights to sovereignty, Finland has also hampered any sudden move on the part of Stalin to dismember Rumania —as seemed imminent two weeks ago, and given time for Balkan resistance to crystallize against aggression in that peninsula. The prospect of peace and the status quo in that corner of Europe is accordingly better than it was.

The Cruise of the Flint

Another chapter in the adventurous voyaging of the City of Flint in European waters and international politics closed suddenly when the ship put into the Norwegian harbor of Haugesund. There the cruise from Murmansk to Hamburg came to a sudden end on order of the Norwegian authorities backed by a couple of gunboats, the Nazi prize crew were sent to an internment camp, and the vessel was released to her American skipper and his jubilant seamen—who had remained aboard, whether because they had to or because they refused to quit their ship.

Ignoring the serious consequences which may follow, this is the prize joke of the war up to date. All down the coast the Nazi commander had kept to territorial waters, observantly followed by the Norwegian warships, without interference so long as he kept going. But when he steered his prize into port the Norwegian officials took the action they were required to take by international law, and which the Soviet officials at Murmansk should have taken. Hats off to Norway for asserting its right to maintain neutrality, at the risk of incurring the vengeance of the furious Fuehrer!

The future course of the Flint is for Captain Gainard to chart. As skipper of a neutral ship in a neutral port, he may stay there as long as he wants to, or sail when he is ready. As his cargo is consigned to Great Britain there will no doubt be cruisers at hand to convoy him if and when he chooses to resume his much-interrupted journey thither.

The political reactions, if any, are for Berlin to decide. Mr. Cordell Hull has no further worries in the matter at present; the crew are safe and in possession of their ship. The question is, what will Germany do about it, other than trying to sink the Flint when opportunity offers?

Will the Nazis flaunt Washington by avenging themselves on Norway for having kept international law, and thereby freed a crew of American seamen from virtual captivity and restored a United States ship to its owners?

Though he died chief of the board of transport commissioners, Hon. Hugh Guthrie has been in the political limelight most of the time since he entered parliament in 1900. Elected a Liberal, he joined the Union Government of Sir Robert Borden, emerged a full-fledged Conservative and member of the first Meighen Government, held a partfolio in the ghost ministry of 1926, was a candidate for the Conservative leadership at the convention of 1927, and served as Minister of Justice in the Bennett cabinet. When he retired to the railway commission in 1935 he was dean of the House of Commons, having represented South Wellington continuously for nearly 35 years.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Scientific knowledge advances through the ages, but do we know any more about the heart of man and the meaning of life than did the ancients? I doubt it. I've been reading some of the fragments left by Epicurus to mankind from the 300 volumes he is said to have written. Only fragments from his 37 volumes on Nature surjive, but from them and the testimony of his contemporaries it's clear that this Greek philosopher who lived three centuries before Christ was a rare soul for anyone to know.

A GENTLEMAN OF LONG AGO

Changing meaning of words and clerical hostility to pleasure as the purpose of life have given a dictionary meaning to epicureanism quite foreign to the teachings of Epicurus. Instead of "a gourmand, a glutton, a sensualist," the true epicure is one who practices virtue as the highest good so that mental satisfaction flows from his works.

When Hamlet throws off the restraining arms of his companions Rosencrans and Guildenstern that he may follow the ghost of his father, saying: "Unhand me gentlemen. By Heaven, I'll make a ghost of him who lets me," it's quite apparent that the verb "lets" has reversed its meaning since Elizabethan days.

Margaret Ernst in her recently published "In a Word" gives some unusual etymologies. The word "harlot," for instance, since the King James version of the English Bible was written had had one very precise meaning. At one time it referred to a young man given in knavery. The word was entirely masculine, from the old French "arlot"—a lady—Chaucer wrote: "He (Somonour) was a gentil harlot and a kynde. A better felawe sholde men noght fynde."

Far from what was Epicurus; he and his friends lived a simple, frugal life, content often with bread and water. A scrap of letter to a friend says "Send me some preserved cheese, so that when I feel the wish I shall be able to make a feast."

But back to the teaching of Epicurus. Said he: "Self-sufficiency is the greatest of all riches." His pursuit of pleasure meant that before embarking upon some course of conduct, he and his pupils reflected upon the probable sequence of effects that would follow. "Our goal," he said, "is to procure the wellbeing of the body and to maintain the soul from disturbance; these are the conditions of a life of blessedness such as the gods lead." You'd hardly expect a disciple of Epicurus to gorge himself to sleepiessness or waken to a champagne headache.

FRIENDSHIP IS HAPPINESS

As an apostle of human friendship, Epicurus still speaks the thought for today. Said he, "Without friendship it is not possible for us to have solid and enduring pleasure, and we cannot conserve friendship unless we love our friends as we love ourselves. This we do in friendship and therefore friendship is bound up with pleasure."

No wonder Plutarch reports, "It is marvellous how Epicurus brothers loved him." Walking alone in church today and scanning in vain for an acquaintance I thought of the words of Epicurus —they might well be made into a motto for service club luncheons—"We ought to look round for people to eat and drink with before we look for something to eat and drink. . . . To eat without a friend is the life of a beast."

The friendly adjuration rings down 23 centuries of Time, as if uttered but a few minutes before.

You remember Samson's riddle to his thirty companions: "Out of the eater came forth meat and out of the strong sweetness." It won him a bet of thirty sheets and thirty changes of garment. Something like that has come to pass from submarine warfare. Intended to aid in killing, it will save the life of many a weakly infant. Prof. Leslie Chambers of the Pennsylvania School of Medicine, demonstrated the other day at a meeting of dairymen and milk inspectors, a new method of making milk more digestible for weaklings. The milk is passed between a plate vibrating at high frequency and another which is static. The "sonic vibration" breaks up the globules of butterfat, making a softer and more digestible curd.

WAR DEVICE TO AID BABIES

It's an application to industry of the "sonic vibration" system, invented to enable submarines to communicate with each other while submerged.

Would that all war inventions might be put to benefit mankind!

Religion Day By Day

ON THE JUDGE'S BENCH

Just to be sitting on the bench alongside my old friend, the county judge, gave me a new attitude toward the case that was being tried, a trifling automobile accident. The cost of the procedure to the county far exceeded the damage to the cars. Yet justice itself is priceless. The court's elaborate efforts to ascertain the truth inspired a new awesome sense of the sanctity of right in a civilized community.

"Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" In the atmosphere of that courtroom I had a fresh glimpse of the essential nature of God as a Judge. The belief has grown dim in modern consciousness. Yet Divine justice is the very groundwork of all other qualities; even love is founded on justice; and, in a higher conception, justice is an expression of love.

Before Thee, O Eternal Judge of all mankind, we bow in awed humility; praying that we may be kept from sin. Amen.

Read Psalm 89:8-18.

The Unholy Alliance

Recall that the Nazi dictator wrote in "Mein Kampf" that the outcome of a treaty with Russia would be the end of Germany.

Recall also how he distrusted the present rulers of the Soviet. Remember his warning to Germany: "We must never forget that the regents of present-day Russia are common, blood-stained criminals; that here is the scum of humanity, which, favored by conditions in a tragic hour, overran a great State, butchered and rooted out millions of its leading intellects with savage blood-thirstiness and for nearly ten years has exercised the most frightful regime of tyranny for all time."

With slight amendments this is not a bad description of himself and the barbarians who are his "yes men." The Russian rulers, he went on, belong to a nation which "combines a rare mixture of bestial horror with an inconceivable gift of lying, and today, more than ever before, believes itself called upon to impose its bloody oppression on the whole world."

It is still Adolf Hitler speaking and still speaking, not about the Nazis who slaughtered and raped Poland, but about his new-found friends in the Soviet Republics.

"How shall our own nation be freed from the chains of this poisonous embrace," he asked, "if we hand ourselves over to it?" And "how reveal bolshevism to the individual German worker as an accursed crime against humanity if we ally ourselves with the organizations of this spawn of hell (bolshevism) and thereby recognize it as a whole?" (Page 961 of "Mein Kampf.")—Toronto Globe and Mail.

A War of Ideas

The world seems to be rapidly dividing into two opposing groups, those who believe in the democratic way of life and those who believe in the totalitarian way. Behind those two opposing beliefs lie two conflicting ideas concerning man and his nature. One group believes that "Man does not live by bread alone." The other believes that he does. One sees man as a spiritual being and the other denies the whole spiritual background of life and looks upon it as of entirely material origin.

Both Nazlism and Communism look at life from a purely materialistic basis. Human beings are mere pawns in the economic game. Life is a matter of mechanics and a perfect society is a perfect machine designed and made by a little coterie of supermen who call themselves the State. Individuals are mere cogs in that machine. If individuals or groups of individuals do not fit into the plan devised, then the State must step in and, with the impersonality of a surgeon wielding his knife, excise them from the body politic. They call it "liquidating" or "purging." But it has not been done with the cold impersonality of a surgeon. It has been done rather with the deliberate delight of a gangster exercising his sadistic power and impulse. It is doubtful if any blacker pages of history have been written than those of the last few years which have seen the doctrines of materialism taking shape of totalitarian States with their claim to absolute control over the entire life of man through the Party system which begins successfully to use man as a means rather than as an end becomes a Juggernaut crushing out of life all human freedom and value.

The fundamental error of these systems is their denial of the truth that, "man does not live by bread alone." His origin is more than biological and his needs are more than material. He cherishes ideals and visions and, time and again, he has chosen his ideals and visions in preference to bread. Such men do not dream of a world of static perfection, but of an evolving, expanding world in which human personality is attaining ever new reaches of freedom and fulfilment. As regards the State and all other institutions, they assert the great principle laid down 1900 years ago in the words, "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." In the days when those words were spoken religion had made ritual requirement take precedence over human need. As a result, religion had become soulless and inhuman. Likewise, when the State becomes absolute, it becomes merciless and intolerant.—Halifax Chronicle.

Only three years after the Confederation delegates had formally signed the Confederation resolutions, the first parliament of the Dominion of Canada met at Ottawa on Nov. 6, 1867. The elections which had preceded had sent to the first House of Commons a collection of men more or less prominent in their own community but many of whom proved very small indeed in the larger arena; but the first House of Commons also included many big men.

In addition to John A. Macdonald, G. E. Cartier, D'Arcy McGee, Charles Tupper and Leonard Tilley, the chief Fathers of Confederation, a galaxy of political talent notable for so small a community as the Dominion then was.

Floods! Famine! S.O.S.

Editor, Bulletin: At present it is only war news that is interesting! The rest counts for very little! However, there are many other misfortunes which must be made known, and more especially so, when they may be relieved.

No doubt, you have heard of the terrible floods of Tientsin, but has some one mentioned the immense distress of the peasants of the great plain of Hopeh, where 95 miles southwest of Tientsin, our mission of Siemalen is situated!

The misery of our country folks was already complete; war: floods of 1937, two years of plundering and skirmishes, often followed by terrible reprisals and requisitions.

For the past two months, this vast portion has again been flooded. A real famine for three quarters of our vicariate has thereby resulted!

"One million and a half of poor unfortunates who have nothing."

He who has not witnessed the suffering and despair caused by famine can hardly understand the meaning of those words "to have absolutely nothing to eat . . . Nothing for one's self . . . Nothing for the children . . . nothing . . . nothing!

Knowing that they will not find help in any other place (for it's the same misery for 150 miles around) they come to us. Daily, many families, both Christian and pagans, arrive, imploring us not to let them die of hunger! . . . .

Alas! the floods of Tientsin have nearly suppressed our meagre Mission revenues, while the European war has taken away all hope of help from this side. Still, we must not give to the pagans the occasion to say, "The Christians who are always speaking on charity, let the people die of hunger"!

What are we going to do! . . . We turn towards you our brothers of America, imploring you to have pity on such a distress, which will be really hopeless without your brotherly co-operation and generosity!

First assured, dear kind benefactors, of the gratitude of these multitudes, who, thanks to your charity, will live to understand the beauty of the Divine Commandment, 'Love one another . . . .

An offering of $30.00 can save the life of a family of 5 persons for 1 month. An offering of $30.00 can save the life of a family of 5 persons until their harvest of wheat next June. Please send alms to Bishop F. X. Tchao, S. J., Procure of the Mission of Siemalen, 33 St. Louis street, Teintsin, Hopeh, China.

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

The patient with heart trouble naturally wants to know what is going to happen to him. And modern medical science has a very hopeful answer, as I shall explain in the latter part of this article.

Most heart disorders develop as the result of: First, infections such as rheumatic fever and syphilis; second, disturbances of the thyroid gland; and third, high blood pressure with its attendant hardening of the arteries. The arterial change may affect the coronary arteries in such a manner as to cause them to become so narrow as to be unable to supply the heart itself with enough blood.

In addition, such general causes as strain and continuous responsibility, late hours, and irregular meals seem to act as predisposing causes.

Enlargement of the heart seems to be the important factor in estimating how serious the outlook is for the patient. Without such enlargement, the patient is in very little danger of dropping dead from heart failure. Many a patient with a valvular murmur has lived in terror of dying, when the heart was otherwise sound, and when in actuality he had as good a chance of living to a ripe old age as anyone else.

How much the heart is enlarged, how well it is able to carry on its work, how great a reserve power it has, and whether the patient develops shortness of breath upon slight exertion, are valuable signposts in estimating the gravity of the situation. For example, it has been estimated that an individual with a heart trouble with little or no enlargement and with only slight shortness of breath, has an excellent chance of living a good 16 years.

Because of the great strength and toughness of the heart itself, and because Nature will keep working to repair the damage, many cases have been known in which complete recovery occurred, with the result the patients were "cured" and the heart symptoms disappeared. In many other cases, enough improvement has taken place for patients to enjoy good health and to carry on their ordinary activities for many years afterward.

This change in the attitude toward heart disease is one of the important developments in modern medical science. While at one time it was believed that any person with a damaged heart was doomed to a life of inactivity, and a short life at that, there has been a tremendous change in belief. At the present time, it is a well recognized fact that a great many persons with heart disease are well able to live long and active lives. From the previous attitude of gloom, there has been a realization that many patients with heart troubles do get well; or if they can not recover completely, with common sense and good care, they will become well enough to be moderately active and may have a good chance to go on for quite some time.

Dr Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fast Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of health in plain, easily understandable language.

BIG WHEAT CROP STILL UNTHRESHED

A survey of the Trochu district made last week revealed that more than 15 per cent. of the wheat crop was still not threshed. Threshing operations, which were halted by the early snowfall, were resumed by a few farmers late last week, but the majority of the farmers, with their wheat laying on the ground in swaths, were unable to thresh. Some farmers have several hundred acres of wheat laying in swaths.

At least another 15 per cent of the grain in the district has not been delivered to elevators as yet and the bulk of this grain is now tough or damp. To date nearly 500,000 bushels have been delivered to the Equity aiding elevators, three miles south of Trochu. Bulk of the wheat already delivered has graded No. 1.

A farewell party for Mrs. Dunham was held at the home of Mrs. T. P. McGowan last week, when the guest of honor was presented with a lovely fountain pen as a token of the esteem in which she was held by the ladies of the district. Mrs. J. P. Ferguson made the presentation. The Elks Lodge of which Mr. Dunham is a prominent member, held a bridge and social evening in honor of Mr. Dunham before he left, at which he was presented with a wrist watch.

This active association is now sponsoring five major activities in town. Health and Recreation classes under the Dominion-provincial Youth Training scheme and a beautiful children's playground and park are the other two.

MORRIN

Morrin Farmer Succumbs After Harvest Mishap

While working on the farm of W. Stauffer, Thomas Miller, of Morrin, had two fingers torn off in the gears of a combine. He was rushed to the Drumheller hospital where he died October 30 from the effects of blood-poisoning.

Mr. Miller, who had been a Morrin resident for a number of years, was not married. Born at Prestonpans, Scotland, in 1899, he saw service overseas. The deceased is survived by his father, Thomas Miller, Sr., of Morrin, and one brother, Charles Miller, in Fifeshire.

Funeral services, under the auspices of the Morrin branch of the Canadian Legion, were held in the Morrin Memorial hall last week, with Adjutant McKinley of the Salvation Army, officiating. Pallbearers were T. Ankers, F. Foster, J. Morrison, J. Wolfe, W. Rebill and H. Gillerie. Interment took place in the Morrin cemetery.

Captain Relates Rescue Of 250 Survivors From Torpedoed British Ships

HOBOKEN, N.J., Nov. 6.—Captain D. J. McKenzie described Sunday the rescue of 250 survivors of two torpedoed British vessels in the North Atlantic as he docked the American-France Line freighter Independence Hall with 38 passengers from Bordeaux.

The Independence Hall picked up 72 officers and crew members and one passenger from the Mandalay, and 277 from the Yorkshire. The survivors were returned to Bordeaux.

RECEIVE SOS TWICE

"We were approximately 400 miles at sea on Oct. 17," Capt. McKenzie said, "when Radioman John Drougal picked up an SOS from the Yorkshire stating it had been torpedoed.

"Thirty minutes later, after we had changed our course to reach the Yorkshire, we picked up an SOS from the Mandalay saying she was sinking and that the crew had taken to the lifeboats.

"We sighted the Mandalay five minutes later, settling slowly on an even keel. Suddenly the vessel buckled in the centre, the bow touching the stern, and slipped under the choppy rough sea."

A boat crew put out from the Independence Hall to pick up survivors clinging to bits of wreckage.

McKenzie said a submarine came to the surface astern the Independence Hall while she was picking up survivors from the Mandalay's lifeboats and trained a searchlight on the vessel to determine its nationality.

"The following morning, the Independence Hall sighted a motor launch from the Yorkshire, with six packed lifeboats in tow.

"The good judgment and seamanship of Second Officer L. H. Shedrake of the Yorkshire (the sole surviving officer of the mishap which took 87 lives) saved many lives," McKenzie said.

ARMS REPEAL HELPS ALLIES IN MANPOWER

Releases Many Men From Industry For Service In Armies

British United Press

PARIS, Nov. 6.—France figured out the implications of the United States arms embargo repeal act today and estimated that, aside from the war materials involved, it had released 500,000 French and British men for the armies.

It takes 7,000 man-hours to build the fuselage of a fighting airplane and 30,000 hours to build a big bombing plane, it was said.

French enthusiasm was increased by the fact that the American planes already in France have proven their worth. French experts say that though the German Messerschmidts are faster, the American planes are more easily manoeuvered and have not lost a single air combat, though at times French pilots in them have been outnumbered two to one.

The embargo vote in congress was called the biggest international development since Russia, while negotiating with the Allies, concluded an agreement with Germany.

It was understood that the French and British governments would study how a joint plan for purchases of war materials, and that it might be several weeks before this plan had been fully worked out.

DYSART TELLS WHY ELECTION CALLED IN N. B.

REXTON, N.B., Nov. 6.—Premier A. A. Dysart said Saturday his government had plans for "exhaustive agricultural expansion in this province" next spring. He spoke at a Liberal party convention at which he, A. J. Bordage and Isaac Melanson were chosen as Kent County candidates in the provincial election Nov. 20.

"The question has been asked, why did we bring on an election at this time," the premier said. "We had to come to the people next spring at any rate and in view of the state of war existing we felt it much better to come to the people at this time, for next spring we plan to start an exhaustive agriculture expansion in this province."

U.S. Survey Shows Canadian Industry Due For Expansion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The United States commerce department said Sunday the second Great War would result in expansion of many Canadian industries.

"Indirectly," a survey reported, "all industry has been stimulated by re-stocking activities which have developed in considerable volume in anticipation of increasing prices."

War contracts reported to date have affected particularly the Canadian aviation, textile and shoe industries and concerns manufacturing railway cars, the report declared.

Attorney-General Wants Ban Be Put On Five Tabloids

TORONTO, Nov. 6 — Attorney General Gordon Conant Saturday asked the Ontario supreme court to issue injunctions banning publication of five tabloid weekly newspapers published here. The move was part of his war on "filthy literature," announced Friday.

The five publications mentioned in separate writs are: Hush, The Week-Ender, The Tattler, Flash and Scoop.

Near-Record Grain Harvest In Soviet

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—The first preliminary estimate of a near-record Russian grain harvest of 114,600,000 tons indicated to foreign observers Sunday the Soviet might export grain to Germany without drawing heavily upon her reserves.

Close Co-operation of French, British Navies Is Being Increased

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Close and increasing co-operation of the British and French navies and the strength of the French fleet was stressed in an official statement issued here Sunday at the conclusion of a four-day visit to Paris of the first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill.

The statement said, in part:

"The visit of Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, to Paris, and his conversation with Cesar Campinchi, French minister of marine, and Admiral Jean Drelan, commander of the French naval forces, emphasizes the close co-operation of the French and British navies in the fight against Germany.

TYPE TO FIGHT NAZIS

"The French navy today is a strong and highly efficient force. It is stronger in every arm than the German navy and its composition is peculiarly well suited to combat German methods of sea warfare, since French realism never lost sight of the fact that Germany would one day return to the attack on the western democracies.

"At the outbreak of the war France had seven capital ships in commission. Of these, two are fast battle cruisers of 26,000 tons, armed with 13-inch guns. They are well suited for dealing with Germany's pocket battleships, and were in fact built as 'replies' to those ships.

"The co-operation of the French and British navies has been close since the very beginning of the war. To some extent the co-operation of the two navies was facilitated by the experience realized by units of both fleets in their activities undertaken to prevent any spread of the Spanish war.

MAINTAIN PATROLS

"French and British ships have been working in close liaison in establishment and maintenance of patrols and protection of convoy escorts as well as in prosecution of the offensive against German U-boats.

"The French navy has also been playing an important part in the interruption of German maritime trade and the capturing of German merchant vessels on the high seas. In this connection the capture by a French submarine of the German merchant ship Chemnitz and the escorting of that ship into a French harbor has made submarine history."

Songs Of Yesteryear Mingle With Modern Dancing Tunes At Macdonald Supper Dance

PACK up your troubles in your old kit-bag and smile, smile, smile" . . . Songs of yesteryear mingled sweetly with the tunes of the dancing songs of today when guests, in gala party mood, dancing and dining in the Macdonald hotel on Saturday evening, hummed along accompaniment to the orchestra as they danced gracefully through the softly lighted ballroom of the hotel. Olden-time songs that struck a note of cheer and gaiety in another time of war found an echo in the hearts and mood of the dancers on Saturday who, if not forsaking the tunes of today, found them very pleasant for dancing.

Tables were set at the edge of the floor, and centred with autumn flowers and lighted by the flame from tall waxen tapers in silver holders.

REPRESENTED

University and overtown social circles were both represented among the guests at the affair, among whom were noticed Miss Lois Long in a pale blue frock of net over taffeta fashioned with bouffant skirt and slender bodice, dancing with Mr. Frank Swanson; Miss Betty Richards, charming in black net trimmed with rings of gold at the neck and skirt hem, seen dancing with Mr. William Terwilliger; Miss Peggy O'Connor in mauve-wine taffeta dancing with Mr. John R. Washburn.

Miss Lois M. Baker was a pretty figure in her toe-tip length gown of black silk velvet and her partner was Mr. Bruce F. Macdonald. Miss Enid Newland frocked in rustling black taffeta fashioned on period lines was noticed dancing with Mr. Ted Bell.

Teal blue silk fashioned the pretty gown that Miss Elsie Wiggins wore, and a single gardenia was pinned on top of her head. Her partner was Mr. Don Robertson. Others in their party were Mr. and Mrs. Blanche Lorimer, who, dancing with Mr. Percy Powers, was frocked in apple green chiffon frock over lace. Pearls at her throat, and in her bracelets, and a corsage of Talisman roses completed her ensemble.

CRIMSON MOIRE TAFFETA

Miss Dorothy Craighill wore a dancing frock of crimson moire taffeta and was seen dancing with Mr. Walter Howard. Miss Frances Williamson was a lovely figure in her gown of white chiffon, trimmed with sequins at peacock blue at her throat and the bow in her hair. Her partner was Mr. Jack Morgan. Miss Marion Esch, who was with Mr. Cliff Gillespie, also wore a frock of white taffeta with Talisman roses, en corsage, and Miss Alice Gillespie, who danced with Mr. Victor Soley, wore a blue net and lace over taffeta, with sweetheart roses. Miss Dorothy Hawley, in a blue moire taffeta and with American Beauty roses en corsage, was noticed dancing with Mr. Alec Jukes.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Robertson of Stewart, B. C., who are in Edmonton at present visiting Mr. Robertson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Robertson, were supper dance guests. Mrs. Robertson wore a lovely gown of black velvet. Miss Amy Cogswell wore a frock of rose chiffon and Miss Margery McDermid wore a model of black moire taffeta for the occasion. Their partners were Mr. Abel Sinclair and Mr. Cheeney Powell.

Composing another attractive little party were Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Winny, Mr. and Mrs. Earth Sauder, and Mrs. Oswald Manning. Miss Kay Swallow, Mr. Jake Woolgar, Mrs. R. McLeod and Mr. Scotty Moir.

Noticed at another table were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fraser and Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Campbell.

Others noticed were Mr. and Mrs. John Wright Proctor of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Skinner, Miss Sheila Cameron, Mr. Arthur Beauchamp, Miss Jane Diamond, Mr. Peter Rule.

NEW USE FOR EAR-CLIPS

Fashionable women are finding a new use for jewelled ear-clips. They fasten them to small bows of metallic ribbon and wear one pinned onto the evening frock and one in the hair. Diamond ear-clips are nice on stiff gold ribbon bows.

Musical Club Hears Fine Concert

WIDELY varied and accompanied by interest commensurate with the diversity of material therein contained, was the miscellaneous program given at the Saturday meeting of the Women's Musical Club at the Masonic Temple. The next program will be on Nov. 13 and will be devoted to music by women composers.

In a brief address, in which she dealt with various events in the offing, Mrs. Ernest Meaden, president of the club announced that during this season, meetings would commence promptly at three o'clock and urged those attending to be on time lest they should miss something of special interest. A good start on this policy was made at this meeting.

OF YOUNGER SCHOOL

A significant feature of the recital was that practically all participants were of the younger school and all acquitted themselves admirably.

Mary Drummond Hallen, one of the most brilliant city pianists of recent years, contributed two groups, the first including the First Movement of Bach's Italian Concerto and Chopin's Ballade in G Minor, opus 23 and the second Charles Haubiel's Elves Spinning; Medtner's Two Tales and Waldo Warner's The Road Breaker. Selydom has she played more brilliantly or with more finish, her work throughout being on a high plane.

Kathleen Busby, soprano, also contributed two groups, the first being Joe Initative Heed Not Those Black Illusions and the Aria The Smiling Dawn of Happy Days from Handel's Jeptha and Mozart's Violet and the second Grieg's The Swan and Dell-Acqua's Villanelle. Her clear, well-controlled and always attractive voice has seldom been heard as advantageously as on this occasion. She sang freely, easily and with obvious enthusiasm.

Nolan Henderson, violinist, played the first movement of Lalo's ever-welcome Spanish Symphony in his first appearance and in his second Tchaikovsky's Melodie, Mozart's Minuet in D and Monti's scintillating and widely played Czardas. Neatness, precision and not little brilliance were features of an excellent performance.

FIRST GROUP

Ian Docherty, baritone, for his first group sang Oh, Leave Me Not Alone in Sorrow and Pieta Signore by Stradella and Mozart's Serenade by's Bolero. Ever-improving Mr. Docherty has never been heard to better advantage. He sang with splendid intonation and a fine feeling for the portent of the songs, altogether giving a performance of sterling merit that he has every reason to feel proud of.

Special interest in the program centred on the performance of a musical skit The Family Breakfast Table, composed by Mrs. Helen Boese, president of the Calgary Women's Musical Club and well-known here as pianist, composer, accompanist, Mrs. Boese came up from Calgary especially for the occasion and was at the piano during the performance of her work. The skit deals with a family at breakfast and the conversation and actions attendant thereon—all of which is portrayed in son grather than exercer sation.

The ideas were fresh and their musical treatment atmospheric.

Mrs. James B. Collier, who found time to direct presentation of the work, which was done in highly polished manner. The cast, all true and true members of the Edmonton Civic Opera Society was as follows: Maid, Betty Reilly; Mr. Shaver, Mother, Ethel Macintosh; Daughter, Jean Braschuk; Son, Robert Shaw, and Father, Jonas Thomson.

Helen Barbour, Iris Docherty and Henry Atack were the skilled accompanists of the afternoon.—J. G.

Couple From Out-of-Town Marry Here

St. Joachim's church was the scene of a quiet wedding of interest to out-of-town friends on Saturday afternoon when Margaret Mary Givens, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Givens of Islay became the bride of Joseph Arthur Durand, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Durand of St. Paul.

Miss Mary Catherine Dunnigan attended the bride as matron of honor while the best man was Mr. Henry Joseph Roberts.

Following the ceremony a reception for immediate friends was arranged at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Dunnigan.

Formal Ball Is Held At University

SOPHOMORE class members at the University of Alberta were party hosts in the spacious dining room and lounge of Athabaska hall, University campus, on Saturday evening when they entertained at their annual reception to Freshmen. More than 350 guests attended the party.

Novel decoration theme of an amusing newspaper comic strip provided a delightful setting for the affair, with the characters playing the pranks on one another in mural scenes. Gaily colored streamers also decorated the hall and following supper multicolored balloons showered guests from above.

Guests were received by Mrs. W. A. R. Kerr, wife of the president of the University of Alberta, Mrs. J. M. MacEachran, Mrs. John Macdonald and Miss Florence Bond. Mr. E. W. King, president of the Sophomore class, introduced guests.

The Happy Young Mother

Long before the arrival of baby she began to fortify her body by enriching her blood and building up the vigor of the nervous system. This was to enable her to withstand the strain she anticipated and to supply abundant nourishment for her child.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has long been known for its benefit to mothers under these circumstances, and she proved it to be most helpful in her case, both before and after baby's coming.

The addition of Vitamin B_1 to the formula of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made it more effective than ever as a preventive for many of the discomforts preceding childbirth as well as in recovering strength and vigor afterwards.

Almost any woman can tell you something about the benefits obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food either by herself or friends.

Criss-Crossing Crusts Simplifies Pie-Making

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

A little crisscrossing makes a pie smile. Especially when the recipe is made for cooks not too sure of themselves.

CRISSCROSS DATE PIE

Two cups dates, seeded and halved, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1½ cups hot water, 2½ tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, juice of 1 lemon, 1 pie crust, uncooked.

Combine dates, salt, tapioca and water and heat to boiling point. Remove from heat, add butter, sugar, and lemon juice and stand about 15 minutes. Line a 9-inch pie plate with one-half the pastry rolled about ⅛ inch thick. Fill with date mixture, and arrange lattice of pastry across top. Moisten edge of pie with cold water and finish with narrow strips of pastry. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 10 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 20 minutes more. Cool. Arrange wreath of sweetened whipped cream around edge of crust before serving.

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BRITTLE

Here's another easy sweet. Has that "high school girl flavor":

Two squares unsweetened chocolate, ¼ cup corn syrup, 2-3 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1 cup peanuts.

Melt chocolate in heavy pan. Add corn syrup and sweetened condensed milk. Stir over low heat until mixture will crackle when tested in cold water. Add peanuts. Turn onto buttered pan and press into thin sheet with hand. When cold, break into pieces.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed pears, oatmeal, nut muffins, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Lima bean and tomato casserole, whole wheat bread, fruit bowl, chocolate peanut brittle, tea, milk.

DINNER: Roast stuffed shoulder of veal, baked potatoes, brown gravy, baked winter squash, celery and cabbage salad, French dressing, crisscross date pie, coffee, milk.

DESIGN No. 303—EMBROIDERY CHAIR SET

Nowadays living-rooms are the most lived in rooms of all, and comfortable chairs are constantly in use. Not only do chair sets protect them day by day, but they add a homey, artistic atmosphere and color to the more sombre upholstery of over-stuffed furniture.

This design is unusually graceful. The set may be worked on linen, silk or cotton.

The pattern includes transfers of the designs on the chair back and two arm rests, color combinations, detail of embroidery and instructions for finishing.

To order this design write your name and address on a piece of paper and send with 15 cents in coin or stamps to Needlework Department, The Edmonton Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta.

Watch Those Sniffles And Still Look Pretty

By ALICIA HART

If, in spite of her staying in bed 24 hours and drinking quantities of liquids at the first sign or sniffles, her head cold gets off to a head start, the sensible woman sees her doctor at once. From then on, she follows his advice about gargling, using a nasal spray, getting more rest and drinking more liquids.

In addition, however, she knows the chances are that she can't completely hibernate until the cold has run its course and disappeared—she figures out ways to appear reasonably presentable in the meantime.

For one thing, she asks her doctor to recommend an eye lotion to be used according to his directions to eliminate the red, swollen look around eyes and the bloodshot streaks in them. During this period she doesn't wear mascara at all—daytime or evening. She may, however, if eyelids are red, apply a bit of eyeshadow in brown or some other natural color.

WHAT, NO BLUSH?

The chances are that she'll give up rouge at least until the flushed look leaves her face and throat. She'll wear powder lightly which won't smear, no matter how often she has to use a handkerchief.

She may use a slightly heavier foundation preparation to give her complexion a smooth, satiny finish seldom found naturally in the skin of one suffering from a bad head or chest cold. She'll repowder often. She'll keep her hair clean and shining by brushing and some kind of dry shampoo treatment until the doctor says she can have it washed once a week again.

She'll direct her face and throat in night cream each and every night and use a special lip salve to prevent chapping around nose as well as lips. And she'll use a scalp lotion of some sort to counteract the unpleasant effects the average cold has on the average head of hair. In other words, although she may have the cold for what seems like eternity, she won't be an unpleasant sight during the time she has it.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Every woman is an enigma, but when you consider a woman who is also the mother of girls, you have the world's prize conundrum that no one can guess at. The most plausible theory can any one explain why mothers rear their daughters as they do; why they so deliberately unfit them for the lives they are predistined to live; and more particularly why, since every mother wants her daughter to marry, she does not teach them the first elements of being good wives.

Consider the way you are bringing up your girls. Consider the way you are training and fitting up theirs. How many little girls do you know who are being taught to control their tempers? How many little girls do you know who are taught any habits of order and tidiness about their clothes and rooms neat and clean? How many have any household chores that they have to perform every day? How many are being made to finish anything they start?

How many adolescent girls do you know who can cook a decent meal? How many can make a dress? How many know how to market? How many can get their money's worth out of a dollar? Some, of course, but a number of girls whose mothers teach them any of the practical things that every woman needs to know is pitiably small.

It is because mothers prepare their daughters for divorce instead of marriage that we have so many broken homes. Mabel marries ad then the trouble begins, for when Mabel's husband finds out that she doesn't know how to cook a decent meal, that she keeps a house that looks like a cyclone had passed through it and that she is running him in debt with her extravagance he says things that don't sound like love talk.

When Mabel finds out that her husband expects her to act like an adult human being and pull her weight in the boat, and that he has not the slightest idea of pampering her like Mother did, she packs her bags and goes back home.

What a crime any woman commits who raises a spoiled girl to curse some man in a hovel.

DOROTHY DIX.

McKenney On Bridge

My articles last week were devoted to the simple and basic but effective system of hand valuation devised by Charles H. Goren, the Philadelphia expert. In response to numerous requests I am giving today a questionnaire on the Goren system.

1. Does the Goren system employ a count of honor tricks?

2. Can the Goren system be used together with other bidding methods?

3. Your partner opens the bidding with one club. You hold a hand worth an opening bid. What do you think the combined hands are worth?

4. In the above situation, what should be your first response?

5. If your partner then rebids by saying one no trump, or two clubs, what should be your second response?

6. Your partner opens the bidding with one spade. You respond with two hearts, having a hand worth an opening bid. He raises to three hearts. What do you think the combined hands are worth?

7. In the above situation, how should you proceed?

8. Your partner opens with one diamond. You respond with one heart, holding a hand worth an opening bid. Your partner bids two no trumps. What do you think the combined hands are worth?

ANSWERS.

1. No. It does not tell you how to decide whether you have an opening bid, but what to do after you have decided.

2. Yes, it does not conflict with any of the well-known systems, but is a useful adjunct.

3. Worth at least a game, provided that some playable declaration can be found.

4. The natural response, such as one of a suit, as a one-over-one force.

5. Bid games at once, if you recognize a playable major suit or no trump. If there is a doubt about a playable declaration, make another exploring bid.

6. Worth at least a game, possibly a slam.

7. Commence exploring for slam by whatever methods you and your partner employ.

8. Worth a slam. Explore for the best declaration and for a possible grand slam.

Raising A Family .

When a boy or girl says, "In a minute, mother," what should we do about it?

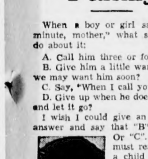

A. Call him three or four times?

B. Give him a little warning that we may want him soon?

C. Say, "When I call you, jump"?

D. Give up when he doesn't come, and let it go?

I wish I could give an arbitrary answer and say that "B" is right.

O. R. Barton children think they must finish at the time or be very much upset. And this, itself, is the very seed of the concentration that is pretty hard to ingrain later.

Well, I should never call a child half a dozen times to his supper. He has to learn punctuality as well as stick-to-itiveness. He must learn very early in life that there are certain summonses he must obey without argument or delay. The school-bell won't wait. The bus won't wait. The dinner must not wait. Bedtime must not wait.

And, in this same category we must class the call from mother. She says, "Put that book down and come here, son." He should put it down and hop to attention.

Right here, however, we run into human nature. There is Prince William Dust about to be killed by a Saracen arrow, with Big Leather Cap riding hard to save his master. Who hears the word that a boiled dinner is on the table and getting cold? Not Bob.

He will read right on to the end of the page and maybe the chapter. This might be anticipated by his mother, who could say, a little beforehand, "Dinner in five minutes, Bob. Stop at the end of the page. I won't call you more than once. Remember, now I expect you to pay attention."

INDIFFERENT CHILD IS USURPING AUTHORITY

The child on the street often pretends not to hear when he is called, or says, "In a minute." This is largely habit. He is seldom so engrossed by any immediate play that he can't break loose at once. He must learn to come the minute he is called.

Don't call any child and then give up. Either call when it is necessary and get him there, or don't call at all. To let him decide whether or not he is to answer puts him in authority.

For the most part, I think that all children should step on it when they are summoned, and right smartly, too. There are exceptions, but even so, they should come. Too many tired and dragged out mothers have to coax.

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

By Jerry Brondfield

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOAN JOHNSON—a mysterious coed, glamor girl of the Tech campus.

KEITH RHODES—Tech's star fullback, headed for All-American honors.

DAN WEBBER the blocking back who clears Keith's way; a steady, industrious student.

YESTERDAY: Through Elaine's manoeuvering, Joan is named cheerchairman with Dan for "Last Week" ceremonies. Dan is afraid Keith will be angry, but Rhodes shows little interest. Wednesday, three days before the Pitt game, three mysterious strangers wait for Joan outside a classroom building, study her intently as she comes toward them.

CHAPTER XX

THEY waited until Joan was well on her way down the walk before any of them spoke again. Sam, the driver, shifted his hat to the back of his head, turned and faced the bulky one.

"Okay, so we saw her. So what do we do now? I'm tellin' you, Ed, this is gotta be quick." He jammed a cigarette in his mouth, fished for a match. "I like to work fast, see? Fast. Like this, see?" He snapped his fingers twice, rapidly.

The big one called Ed blinked wildly. "I ain't sayin' you how you like to do things." He spoke mildly but there was an undercurrent of authority in his voice. "Rocco back there," he jerked a thumb over his shoulder, "Rocco thinks this is gonna be easy. Me, I ain't so sure. We're gonna look up and down both ways before every step."

Rocco, the scarface, smiled thinly. "Sure, Ed, sure." He gestured with the nail file. "Meanwhile, what about her? Do we follow her home?"

"No. All I wanted to do was take a gander at the gal today. We know where she lives so there's no use trailing her now." He nudged the driver.

"Let's go, Sam. We've got some figurin' to do."

"Yeah," said Rocco. "Fifty G's worth, hey Ed?"

"Yeah . . . yeah, sure," said Ed slowly.

Joan had planned to stay in that night but Marianne talked her into going to the library. "It'll just take me an hour at the most," Marianne promised. "I've got to skim over some outside reading for that silly economics course. It's a swell night and we can stop in at the Varsity for cokes or something. C'mon."

Marianne didn't do as much reading as she planned and they wound up at Varsity a little before 10.

They were dallying over their drinks and did not notice when a short, dapper man in a dark blue suit entered and bought a pack of cigarettes at the tobacco counter. Rocco lighted up and leaned back against the showcase. He puffed a stream of smoke into the air and stared around the place absently.

The nickelodeon was going full blast. Students straggled in looking for empty booths. A few rushed around helplessly as usual.

Rocco smiled at old Uncle Jim, the cashier, behind the counter and jerked his head at the scene in general.

"Those kids never get tired of this stuff, do they?"

"Hope not." Uncle Jim said dryly. "I stop eating when they do. At least I stop eating regularly."

Rocco laughed, good-naturedly. "You've got somethin' there, grandpaw." And then: "Say, tell me—any tickets to be had for the ball game Saturday? Understand it's a sellout."

"Sellout? Son, I'm tellin' you I've been here close to 24 years and I've never seen a demand for tickets like this is going to be. Why, there ain't going to be room for an undernourished gnat in that stadium, come 2 o'clock Saturday."

Rocco flicked ashes into the tray. "Look, gramps, I never saw the football game a guy couldn't get a duest to somehow. There'll be guys scrambling 'em for 20 bucks a pair by Friday."

"Oh . . . that way? That's different. Maybe you can pick one up. You're something of a stranger, aren't you? I mean, you're a stranger to here?"

"Oh, just sorta. I'm a salesman. Get through here every six weeks or so. I shoulda made some arrangements for a ticket, I guess."

Rocco blew another stream of smoke into the air and Uncle Jim rang up two sales. Rocco looked down the crowded rows of booths inside and riveted his eyes on Joan and Marianne.

He saw they were through with their drinks but he knew they'd be sitting there awhile. He flicked ashes to the floor with a slight movement of his finger. These college kids sure could waste time. But still, that's the way they had was time. He didn't blame them, at that.

He turned back to Uncle Jim. "Kid brother of mine went to Tech a few years back," he lied, just to make conversation.

"Is that right? What was his name? Maybe I knew him. They all come in here sooner or later."

"Uh—Kinkade. But he only stayed here a year—his freshman year."

"Oh, I see."

The outside door opened and Tommy Peters came in. Uncle Jim called him over. "Tommy," he began, "this gentleman here wants to pick up a ticket for the game Saturday. You know—anything at all will do. Think maybe one of the kids would be willing to pass over his ticket—for a price?"

Tommy laughed. "Pass up the Pitt game? Jim, you must be getting slug-nutty. There isn't a kid on this campus who'd miss that thing for 50 bucks."

He turned to Rocco. "Your best bet is to camp down in the hotel lobbies. That's where the gambling crowd operates. You usually can pick up a ticket, there, too."

Tommy looked at Rocco more closely, glanced at the scar. Rocco toyed with his cigarette.

"Haven't I seen you before?" Tommy inquired, "or are you a stranger around here?"

"Stranger," Rocco said easily. "Natal."

Tommy nodded and wandered inside. He waved to Joan and Marianne when they stood up to leave.

The girls stopped and chatted with him for a moment or two and then moved on.

Rocco was browsing through the magazines when the girls stopped to pay their check. He looked up and studied Joan intently as Uncle Jim made change.

When they had gone he approached the showcase again.

"Very striking gal, that dark-haired one. Student here, I suppose."

"Yep . . . Joan Johnson's her name. Awful nice girl. Pretty as a picture, don't you think?"

"I think," Rocco replied succinctly. "But how come a gal like that ain't acquired by one of the college boys?"

"Oh, she usually is. By Keith Rhodes. He's our crack halfback, you know. But the football boys aren't out much this week."

"Keith Rhodes, hey? Interesting. Well, I'll drop back, grandpaw. Let me know if you hear of a good ticket on the loose."

He drifted out and Uncle Jim looked up again to confront Tommy Peters.

"Say, Jim, who was that guy, anyhow?"

"Let's see." He scratched his chin. "Said he was a salesman traveling through here. Had a brother at Tech some years back named Kinkade—to be said. Y'know, I didn't like that guy, Tommy. I didn't like the way he called me grandpaw, all the time."

Tommy leaned both elbows against the showcase. "Jim, I've got a queer gift. Once I see a picture somewhere I never forget it. Now I'd swear I saw that fella's picture somewhere. In a newspaper. Yessir, Jim, I think it was in St. Louis a couple years back. But I can't recall what the connection was."

GLYCERINE SOFTENS

When the glass stopper of a perfume bottle refuses to budge, drop a little glycerine around it and it will loosen quickly.

"Missouri Joe" and baritones, basses growl the lines:

"Kick in with your dough!"

Now one old maid started in to knockin'

Joe walked up and picked her stockin'—"

These lively ditties are given complete—with words, music and piano accompaniments—in our cowboy songbook. Contains 19 favorites for party fun—among them "Goin' Down to Santa Fe Town," "Two Gun Bonnie," "The Texas Song."

DRESSING FOR FRUIT SALAD

When making mayonnaise for fruit salad, use lemon juice instead of vinegar. It brings out the delicate flavors of the fruits better. Whipped cream for your fruit juice may be used as well as lemon.

To Have a Gay Evening Start a Cowboy Song

WHEN I DREAM OF MY RED RIVER HOME

Fun for a Twosome or a Crowd

Winter evenings and crisply crackling fires! Time to gather the crowd together to sing cowboy songs—the same heart-warming airs you hear over the radio.

There's the favorite "When I Dream of My Red River Home." Its plaintive chorus goes:

"In my heart there's an old-fashioned yearning

When I dream of my Red River Home,

And the rose-covered lane in the doorway

Seems to beckon to me as I roam."

And as you leaf over your songbook, you see "The Border Affair," a ballad of intrigue!

"Neath the mellow, yellow moon, We would meet and part too soon. We'd converse in tones so low So the Mable wouldn't know—"

A bad bandit is the hero of worth an opening bid. He raises to three hearts. What do you think the combined hands are worth?

7. In the above situation, how should you proceed?

8. Your partner opens with one diamond. You respond with one heart, holding a hand worth an opening bid. Your partner bids two no trumps. What do you think the combined hands are worth?

ANSWERS.

1. No. It does not tell you how to decide whether you have an opening bid, but what to do after you have decided.

2. Yes, it does not conflict with any of the well-known systems, but is a useful adjunct.

3. Worth at least a game, provided that some playable declaration can be found.

4. The natural response, such as one of a suit, as a one-over-one force.

5. Bid games at once, if you recognize a playable major suit or no trump. If there is a doubt about a playable declaration, make another exploring bid.

6. Worth at least a game, possibly a slam.

7. Commence exploring for slam by whatever methods you and your partner employ.

8. Worth a slam. Explore for the best declaration and for a possible grand slam.

Don't Ever Be the Man Nobody Wants

Provide now for retirement on $100 a month through Imperial Life

THE day will come when you will want to quit work. That is inevitable, isn't it? Then, how wonderful to have an income that will go on and on!

Thousands of prudent men own Imperial Life retirement policies. Every day, more and more men are taking this wise step that guarantees their dependents day-to-day protection, financial help in emergencies and a certainty of monthly income from their last working day on. An income that will provide them with the means of enjoying their "sunset" years—with protection for those who are left should the unexpected happen.

Imperial Life offers you one sure way to save money—the one sure way to feel free from financial worry! Imperial Life plans are elastic. They can meet the exact needs of both the wage-earner and the salaried executive. Take your first step toward real independence today —see the Imperial Life representative about your income needs. No obligation whatever.

There is a way out. Below is the case of a man who found it.

In 1932 the branch manager of an oil company took the first step in assuring that he would never be "the man nobody wants". Through the Imperial Life he invested in a Pension Plan that will pay $100 a month for life, commencing when he reaches age 60.

Now in his forties, he is already looking forward to the time when his first retirement income cheques will come due. He is just one of the hundreds of business men who have guaranteed their future independence through an Imperial Pension plan.

Get After Miserable Colds THIS EXTERNAL WAY

Proved Treatment Relieves Distress Quick—Without Risks of Drastic "Dosing"

When a wheezing, miserable cold is making your life unbearable, take a tip from the thousands who relieve the discomforts of colds with Vicks VapoRub. This easy to use, external treatment brings relief right to the spot where you feel colds misery. And there's no gulping of strong disagreeable internal medicines—here is all you do:

At bedtime, massage Vicks VapoRub over throat, chest and back. Right away, VapoRub goes to work to relieve the misery of the cold two ways at once—two DIRECT WAYS.

First, VapoRub acts on the skin, stimulating like a warming poultice. Second, it gives off the soothing, medicinal vapours of seven different relief-giving medications—vapours that are carried with every breath direct to the irritated air passages. And here's what this poultice-and-vapour action does.

It clears the air passages, loosens phlegm, checks the tendency to cough—relieves irritation—also eases soreness of the chest muscles. This comforting action continues hour after hour and invites healing, restful sleep. Often by morning, most of the misery, and much of your cold is gone.

ANTI-COMITERN FRONT FACING NEW OBSTACLES

was pointed out the countries were closer politically to Italy than to Germany.

COLD ON COLLABORATION

Both the Hungarians, who once were under a Communist regime, and the Spanish nationalists, whose enemies were aided by the Russians in the civil war, were believed here to look with cold eyes on the collaboration between Hitler and Stalin.

Germany and Japan signed the anti-Comintern pact Nov. 25, 1936, and Italy went in as an "original signer" two years ago today.

It was recalled that a year ago the conservative newspaper Corriere Della Sera of Milan asserted Premier Mussolini's efforts thwarted "destructive and subversive action" by the comintern in Europe and the Far East.

C. I. O. URGING PROMOTION OF LABOR WELFARE

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Function of the department of labor should be to "promote the welfare of labor in this Dominion," rather than to act as "a neutral organization" as between labor and employers, a delegation of the Committee of Industrial Organizations told Hon. Norman McLarty, labor minister, today.

In its first presentation of legislative proposals to the government the Canadian committee, recently organized, urged that women taking the place in industry of men volunteering for army service should receive equal pay for equal services.

Climaxing a two-day conference which opened here Saturday the committee sent a delegation of 20 to call on Mr. McLarty this morning.

A joint representation of the C.I.O. and the all Canadian Congress of Labor held a separate conference with the minister and presented a resolution adopted yesterday covering wages and treatment of workers in the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, the Steel Company of Canada and the Algoma Steel Corporation.

RUSSIA RAPS U. S. REPEAL OF ARMS EMBARGO

MOSCOW, Nov. 6. — The Communist International called on the workers of Great Britain and France today to "go against those who favor continuation of imperialistic war" and accused the United States of "warming its hands near the fire of war."

In a sharply worded manifesto, issued as the U.S.S.R. began a three-day celebration of the 22nd anniversary of the Communist Revolution, the International assailed the United States for repealing the arms embargo and also attacked Italy and Japan.

No mention was made of Germany in the manifesto, which occupied four columns on the front page of Pravda, Communist party newspaper.

Farmer Injured In Long Fall

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Nov. 6.—Gottleib Schattle, Little Plume farmer who fell head first down an elevator shaft here Saturday night, was in serious condition, attendants reported today. Schattle, who is about 60 years old, suffered a fractured skull and paralysis of his right side.

Fatal Accident

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 6. — William Wark, 20, of Windsor, was killed early today near suburban Riverside when the automobile in which he was a passenger failed to make the turn at Dead Man's curve and struck a telephone pole.

Broomhall

The Argentine wheat market is scarcely able to lead the recent advance occasioned by the bullish crop report of November 2nd. The weight of huge supplies on hand and the fact that local millers must not grind new wheat until November, 1940, have a very depressing effect on the trade, supplemented by fears that Great Britain will favor Canada, where supplies are also large. However, the government agency holds most of the old wheat and yesterday advanced the "junta" price to exporters to 6.10 which is equivalent to 49¾ cents and there were rumors that Great Britain bought 200,000 tons. Private firms confirm the official report of damage to wheat from excessive rainfall in the north and in central Buenos Aires province, while further south prospects are still excellent of course a few days of warm, sunny weather can quickly change the tone of reports from the interior, but nevertheless, it must be remembered that in the year 1935 out of 14,200,000 acres seeded to wheat, only 141,000,000 bushels was the amount of the crop, and only 65,000,000 bushels were able to be exported. Canada reported the biggest September flour grinding on record, 1,927,000 barrels. Exports of flour in September totalled 416,000 barrels. Flour exports from Canada last season totalled 4,604,000 barrels compared to 3,610,000 in 1937-38.

ALLIED ARMIES NEW WORK IN CLOSE LIAISON

and one young observation officer in charge of a small company occupying one of these posts told me that he was frozen to the bone in the small hours of the morning. From his observation post, to which I went with him; he looked out over a plain of flat, soggy ground with lines of tall poplars penciled against the sky and with the fields cut across by a small river and a railway line. It was all very desolate, and this small group of men seem to be alone in this part of the line.

NEIGHBORS IN PILL BOXES

But they had close neighbors in pill boxes that have a cross-field of fire. A French sergeant and his men were holding one of the blockhouses on his left. He was a fine type, this young sergeant, and agreed with me gravely that he had a great responsibility in commanding this advance post. He took me inside and swung open his steel doors, through which he gets his guns in action.

"Nothing can touch us here," he told me with great confidence.

This cement is thick enough to stand the heaviest shell fire. It is reinforced with stones as big as my fist and is of tremendous thickness above our heads.

He, too, complained of the intense coldness of the nights in this blockhouse where they have no stove nor any warmth except a pile of straw in which they huddle. They had a companion not on the army list. He was a black mongrel who nosed for his bone in the straw and was the pet of this small group of comrades who would rather be in the Place Picalle in Paris but make the best of this stone dwelling on the edge of No Man's Land which is not yet so sinister in its aspect as that place upon which I used to gaze from sandbag parapets in a different kind of war.

NEW GENERATION

"Are there any veterans of the last war here?" I asked. The sergeant laughed at this question and shook his head.

"We are all of the new generation," he said. "We know nothing of that old chapter of history except which we have heard. And we live in hope that we shall not see the same kind of business as happened in 1914 and the years that followed."

"What are the chances?" I asked him.

He looked me in the eyes and answered enigmatically:

"One never knows. Tomorrow or tomorrow week we may know a little more."

QUIET ALONG THE LINE

We spent several hours along the line. It was very quiet there. But behind the pale glint of autumn sunlight there lurked that portentous question of the immediate future. Tomorrow or tomorrow week—what will they bring! There is only one man who can answer this, and he is on the other side of the frontier.

The public at home must be and certainly is completely mystified by the lack of fighting in France, but last night a very distinguished officer who happens to be a friend of mine reminded us that in previous history, siege warfare has had periods of inactivity lasting far longer than six weeks. He also reminded us that the first sentence in the German war manual gives one word as the most important thing in modern warfare. That word is "surprise."

Chancellor Hitler, he said, is certainly keeping us guessing and we should do well to remember that behind this silence and secrecy there may be a surprise in store for us.

The officer who made these remarks was giving a talk on tanks and armored cars. He knew his subject, for when I first met him he was a young officer of those old tanks—Mark I—that went lurching over the Somme battlefields in September of 1916 and afterward broke the Hindenburg Line. He was wounded more times than would kill most men but not long ago I met him in Berlin, where he was still interested in tanks and especially in German tanks and armored vehicles.

The German High Command has put a good deal of faith in this form of machine which was copied from ours and now has a formidable number attached to each division as Poland knew to her cost.

OLD TYPES IMPROVED

But in certain types we are ahead of them in design and we have improved on our own old types, both in speed and armor as well as in gun power. In addition to our light, medium and heavy tanks, we have our squadrons of armored cars, mainly to be used for reconnaissance as cavalry used formerly.

I happen to know something about them because I have just spent a morning with them and in them at the invitation of a famous cavalry regiment now completely mechanized. The colonel is the only one who was in the last war as a cavalry officer.

Before lunching with them in their mess, I sat with the colonel in his armored car and learned a lot about the technical side of this box of tricks.

PLENTY OF ROOM

There was more room in it than one would imagine for working the guns, maneouvring the car, signaling to other units in the squadron and directing operations. They can get up a high speed, quite fast enough, said one of the officers, when advancing in the direction of the enemy, although not perhaps fast enough if going the other way with tanks in pursuit—this remark not to be taken seriously.

I went the round of the men's billets. They had made the best of primitive conditions. The stone floors were as spotless as a Dutchman's tiles. By cutting up wood for the villagers the squadron I visited goes fifty-fifty to keep themselves warm. They have electric light, put in by themselves, for the long, dark evenings. The sergeant major told me that the men wanted above all things an English dartboard rather better than the one they had improvised with a portrait of Herr Hitler as its bull's eye.

He Proclaims Martial Law in Holland

Premier Dr. Dirk Jan De Geer, of The Netherlands, has proclaimed martial law by royal decree, in more than 500 towns and villages as well as other strategic areas in Dutch defence zones. The proclamation was issued in face of persistent reports that German troops are massing on the Dutch border.

NAZIS CLAIM HAVE ENOUGH FOOD TO LAST

Many Methods Utilized To Conserve Food In Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 6 — German authorities claim the Reich has sufficient food to make the British blockade ineffective.

There is practically no coffee but a Nazi invention—apple tea—is offered as a substitute. German officials say they have stored 8,600,000 tons of wheat and rye as a reserve.

Nazis claim they will not have to use this supply because of grain shipments received from the Balkans via the Danube river, and their own home-grown harvests. In fact, they claim the reserve supply will be built up at the rate of 800,000 tons a year. Germany's annual consumption of wheat and rye is more than 7,000,000 tons.

Germany's food situation was expected to be aided considerably by acquiring of large areas in potato-growing Poland.

Goats have gained favor in the Nazi regime because they can live on garbage and yield more milk and cheese in proportion to their weight than a cow.

Rabbits also are popular because they can live on greens and garbage. The ministry of agriculture has pointed out it was nothing short of a crime to kill female rabbits for eating purposes when they still could be used for breeding.

Keepers of chickens are enjoined not to kill a hen under two years of age unless it has been demonstrated it cost more to keep than the egg production is worth.

YOUNG POLISH SOLDIERS ARE HONORED HERE

Attended by the mayor, chief of police and military officers of the Edmonton garrison, a banquet was held Saturday by the Polish Army Veterans' association honoring young men of Polish birth or parentage who have enlisted with the Canadian Active Service Force.

Speakers were Mayor John W. Fry, Chief Constable A. G. Shute, Major E. B. Wilson and Major W. G. Bury.

"The last time I spoke to you was at a gathering just at the outbreak of war," Mayor Fry said. "Since then many things have happened; your country has been overrun by Germany and your people have suffered greatly.

"I congratulate you young men who are giving service to free your compatriots and, to all of you, I wish to say that I feel you should, and I know you do, appreciate greatly the freedom under which you live in Canada."

The Polish people in Canada have always been loyal to the flag of the British Empire and have made a real contribution to Canadian life, Chief Shute said.

THE QUESTION

Does a man stop playing games because he gets too old or does he get too old because he stops playing games?

THE ANSWERS

ARTHUR SPILLER, chief clerk: I believe he gets too old because he stops playing games. I still have a whack at most games and enjoy 'em, with the result that I only feel about half my years. The late A. J. Balfour of England played a rattling good game of tennis when he was over 70 and the King of Sweden, who now is about 80, plays a good game of golf. Just keep at it and you won't grow old.

JOHN MARTLAND, city architect: I am satisfied that a man gets old because he stops playing games. If he would continue to play, even though he thinks he is getting on, he would not grow old as fast and he would not lose his ability to participate in and enjoy sports. Active game playing will keep him looking and feeling young.

• • •

S. A. MADDOCKS, bank manager: I believe a person gets too old because he stops playing games. Many people never take up any sport and, when they retire, have no game to play or hobby to carry on. Then they wonder why they age quickly. If they play golf, or bridge, or curl they need have no worry about getting old.

Weatherman Says Forecast Is Mild In City District

Continuance of Indian summer in Edmonton is likely, the weatherman intimates. Calling the play Monday morning, he promised fair and comparatively mild weather.

Eight degrees of frost were registered locally around 7:30 and 8:30 a.m. today and sidewalks, still damp from Sunday's .03 inches of rain, glistened white under bright sunshine.

Highest temperature registered on the Sabbath was 44 above. That recording came at 2:30 p.m. but from that time on the mercury dropped quickly and at 9:30 p.m. registered 30 above.

GUIDANCE IS NEED TODAY PASTOR SAYS

Can Be Gratified By Divine Aid, Rev. Tuttle Declares

Need of guidance on the part of the individual in regard to his beliefs and experiences can be fully gratified only through divine aid, declared Rev. A. S. Tuttle, of St. Stephen's college, when he took the pulpit at McDougall United church on Sunday morning.

"Because of the bewilderment and confusion of thought and life that comes to the individual and to the world as a whole, man must have guidance," asserted Dr. Tuttle. "The individual with respect to his religious beliefs and the many varied experiences through which he passes, has need of some rational guidance in those beliefs and in those experiences."

RECONSTRUCTION

With respect to the world as a whole, he continued, while there is general disorganization and fear, yet there is evidence on the part of leaders in church and state as well as in the rank and file, of something that works, that looks toward a moral and spiritual reconstruction which would be necessary for any economic reconstruction and which also looks toward a better understanding among nations and peoples.

"Christ and Our World," was the subject chosen by Rev. Ross K. Cameron when he addressed the congregation of First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. During the evening service, he discussed the "Clash of Age and Youth."

Rev. W. C. Smalley, speaking on the Forward Movement, was guest preacher at First Baptist church Sunday morning. The minister, Rev. Daniel Young, spoke during the evening service, when he chose for his theme, "Have Faith in God."

"This Good World" was the topic on which Rev. D. C. Ramsey spoke when he addressed the congregation of Garneau United church. Mr. Jack Williams was the soloist during the service. The choir was under the direction of Miss Violet Cumming.

KUZIK TRIAL NEARING END: VERDICT SOON

Seven-day trial of George M. Kuzik, Edmonton, on charges of conspiring by deceit and other fraudulent means to defraud the public by obtaining the issue of a naturalization certificate by the department of state neared its conclusion Monday afternoon when defense counsel H. A. MacKay, K.C., started his address to the court on behalf of the accused. The court verdict is expected late Monday.

When court opened Monday Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing intimated that during the trial Friday his remarks were directed solely to the point of defence evidence being submitted, and that a criminal trial was not the place to investigate the conduct of court officials. The jurist added there was a proper way of going about it. This proper way would be through the attorney-general's department. The jurist intimated he did not have any intention of suggesting that or directing an investigation of court officials be made.

W. F. H. Mason, court house official, called in rebuttal testified that Clerk Allan Munro did not bring him the Krudewagen file on May 20. This file, he said, had been placed on the judge's desk. Munro did not warn him about Krudewagen, he stated, and in reply to Mr. McClung he said he had brought to the attention of the judge the fact that the applicant had been on relief.

He showed the judge the notation made by the chamber clerk when the late Mr. Justice Boyle had adjourned hearing of this application until "relief money owing had been paid." The notation slip, he said, had been found in the bottom of the file envelope.

MINISTER ASKS YOUTH TO HELP SALVAGE WORLD

Challenge to youth to salvage "what is good from an era that definitely is closing and to evolve ate intelligently and aift the myriad new things that are being offered for substitutes" was made by Rev. J. Gordon Brown, in a youth rally in McDougall church Sunday night.

Nearly 800 young people from Edmonton and district attended the annual gathering held under the direction of the Edmonton Presbytery United Church Young People's Union.

Rev. Mr. Brown said that youth was now faced with a world of exploiting greed and feathering hate, and that youth can render a second service to the world with a spirit of intelligent adventure, of daring, of abandonment of self in the exhilaration of a new enterprise in equipping themselves to play their part in the saving of the world.

AROUND THE TOWN

Local branches of the Canadian Red Cross Society are being organized at Faust, Myrnam, McMurray, Topland and Frog Lake, Robert Muir, chairman of the men's committees in Edmonton, reported Monday morning.

Douglas Thomson of the city engineer's department on Monday was instructing a crew of some 200 men who on Tuesday will stand at street corners with tally sheets to complete a traffic census. Boy Scouts have checked 13 intersections and the men will do the remaining seven, adding an extra check on the 101 street and 102 avenue intersection.

Members of the Associated Canadian Travelers, Edmonton branch were addressed by Capt. Robert Pearson, provincial censor, at a luncheon meeting in the Corona hotel Saturday when he spoke of motion picture censorship changes in the past 11 years. One-minute silence was observed by members in memory of Sidney Miller who died last week. Mr. Young, chaplain of the group, spoke briefly of the valuable services rendered to the organization by Mr. Miller.

Alf Caywood, of Canadian Airways, flew to a number of mining camps out of Yellowknife with mail and magazines and some express Friday, it was learned here Monday. Police are attempting to find the persons responsible for a series of break-ins of garages and sheds in various sections of the city, which they believe is the work of the same person or gang. Eight garages, three in the West End and five in the East End, and one shed have been broken into. Attempts to break into two houses and a garage have failed.

Varsity Places Ban On Sadie Hawkins' Week: Festival Now Quashed

Sadie Hawkins' Week, which has been adopted enthusiastically as a fun festival in universities throughout the United States, will not be observed at the University of Alberta as planned. Executive of the Students' Council cancelled the proposal after having been instructed to do so by University authorities, it was announced on the campus Monday.

A statement on the situation issued Monday by Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, president of the University, said: "Proposal for a Sadie Hawkins' week was brought forward at a meeting of the students. This meeting did not carry with it the authority of the students' Union. Moreover, the matter had not been brought to the attention of the committee on student affairs and, in addition, the proposal contravened certain legislation of the University Senate which forbids interference with the liberties of individual students.

"The Students' Council has now taken action in the matter and cancelled the whole proposal."

It was learned that Dr. J. M. MacEachern, provost, had instructed Jack Dewis, president of the Students' Union, to cancel plans for observance of the week. It was also believed that a list of rules drawn up by law students to serve as a guide for observance of the festival of fun was the peg on which the University Senate hung its objections.

COEDS DO DATING

During Sadie Hawkins' week, all coeds take the name of Sadie Hawkins. They must do all the dating and when making a date must identify themselves as "Sadie Hawkins" and must pay all costs of entertainment. Special events planned for the week which will now have to be cancelled included a roller skating party and a "Sadie Hawkins' dance".

GROUP LIFE STUDIED AT PARLEY HERE

Studying questions of group living, the place of youth in the world of nations and the place of the church in the making of nations, delegates to the three-day Canadian Girls in Training conference held discussion groups Saturday afternoon at Central United church.

Causes of war can be found in any small group, it was resolved by the group discussion led by Watson Thomson. Man's duty, it was decided, lies in looking to the individual as a member of society able to aid in his particular way, and therefore he should be regarded as a positive factor in the making of a better and more peaceful world.

Joe MacKenzie led the discussion on Youth in the World of Nations.

Discussion group dealing with the Nation and State through Christian Eyes was led by Garth Walker and Gerald Hutchison. Realizing the advantageous position of Canada to play an important part in helping nationalities to live together in a peaceful way, it was proven that Canadians are endeavoring to make

VEHICLES ARE IN DEMAND BY CITY THIEVES

Transportation was evidently in high demand over the week-end for crime reports Monday morning revealed the theft of three automobiles and a bicycle, as well as a woman's pocketbook and a man's overcoat.

Most serious occurrence from a police standpoint was the theft of an auto from Mills Motors Limited. A man presented himself to the officials of this concern as a prospective buyer Saturday, took a car out on approval, and has failed to return.

H. R. Milne, 11818 100 avenue, and Ben Sugarman, 10968 125 street, both reported theft of their automobiles from parking places on downtown section of the city. Robert Airth, 9619 109A avenue, reported the theft of his bicycle.

Mrs. J. B. Barron, 11560 95 street, had a pocketbook containing $3 stolen from her purse while riding on a street car. She missed the pocketbook shortly after a youth had been riding beside her left the car.

Thieves broke into an auto belonging to P. H. McGowan, of Dapp, while it was parked on a downtown street Saturday, and stole his overcoat and other articles valued at $50.

31 Cast Votes At Advance Poll For Civic Elections

The advance poll of the civic election, held Friday and Saturday in the Civic block, recorded the lowest number of votes for many years, with just 31 voters balloting for mayor and council. There were five votes Friday and 26 Saturday.

In 1936 there were 174 votes cast at the advance poll, in 1937, 156 votes and in 1938 there were 136 votes.

POPPY SALES ARE 24,000 FOR TAG DAY

Total Is 7,000 More Than 1938 — $2,600 In Receipts

Rallying to the support of the Canadian Legion Poppy Day campaign in a manner never witnessed in the city before, Edmonton citizens purchased more than 24,000 poppies Saturday and swelled the Poppy Day fund by more than $2,600.

The number of poppies sold Saturday set an all-time high for Edmonton, being 7,000 more than were sold last year.

George E. Gleave, chairman of the campaign committee, reported Monday that the response of the citizens was much more generous than in previous years. The average sale of poppies netted the Canadian Legion more than 10 cents, while in previous years, the average poppy sale was only seven cents. Many citizens contributed dollar bills to the fund, Mr. Gleave reported.

Mr. Gleave expressed his gratitude and thanks to members of the I.O.D.E., Legion of Frontiersmen, members of the Edmonton Garrison and a host of volunteer workers, who made the success of the sale possible by acting as taggers Saturday.

Sale of poppies to school children will be held Wednesday and canvassers will continue making the rounds of Edmonton firms selling wreaths to be displayed on the premises or laid on the Cenotaph Nov. 11. Sale of wreaths is holding up well compared to previous years, Mr. Gleave reported.

FAST LIFE

Fast life always comes to a bad end. But it's a swell trip.

A man who knows a lot of women is called "fast." He has to be, to keep away from them.

The fast life consists of heavy drinking and gambling, much night life, wild escapades, riotous living, and lack of ambition. This last is bad. A wild escapade is no good, unless you want to make it wilder than the last one.

YOUTH CRIME DUE TO LACK OF HOME LIFE

Religion Vital Need In Family Circle, Premier Says

Until fathers and mothers put their homes into the hands of the Lord there will be little improvement in the retrogression of modern home life, Premier Aberhart declared in addressing the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference at the Strand theatre Sunday evening.

He declared that "the hustle and bustle of this world with its many distractions and the terrible grind of so many people to eke out a living, have broken down home life as it used to be in olden times when Burns wrote his "Cotter's Saturday Night."

JUVENILE CRIME

Commenting on the belief that many homes never say grace at meals, never read the Bible together and never have family prayer, he said: "Then we wonder why there is so much juvenile crime."

The meeting was sponsored by three Social Credit groups in the Camrose district, Rosebush, Meeting Creek and the Women's Auxiliary of Meeting Creek. Representatives of these groups were on the platform.

Flaying dictators, the Premier declared that "blatant dictators must be put down for encroaching on the rights of others and taking what they want, but it seems perfectly all right for individuals in their own community to encroach on the local or domestic rights of others and take what they want. Let us be consistent. If one is wrong and it surely is, then the other is just as wrong. Remember we pay heavily for our selfishness. It will overtake us in the long run. The world must declare a moratorium on hate and lust on greed and selfishness."

Continuing his series of studies on the British Coat-of-Arms, Premier Aberhart, in the fifth such study, dealt with The Shield of David and the Secret of God.

He pointed out that an examination of the shield showed that all the details of this great emblem of the men of the covenant, the British, cluster around the shield of David in the centre.

PROTECTION

"In olden times, the shield had a useful purpose as well as a figurative one. It was used to protect the individual against attack. Sometimes it was large and had to be carried by a companion so as to give the warrior freedom to fight.

"In the present day a shield would be little protection unless made of very heavy thick metal. The use of gunpowder and high-powered firearms has eliminated to a large extent the value or the practicability of the shield. It has therefore become largely figurative and symbolic in the present day.

"David's shield was the Lord of Hosts, in whom he trusted implicitly."

DIVINE MEANS

The premier then gave five different names for shield appearing in the Bible and he pointed out that "You see that the Shield of David has always symbolized the secret of God's five-pointed protection, by calamity or storm, by circumstances or conditions, by fear or prickliness, by control or government, by hiding or covering. These are the Divine means of protection. The first three are accomplished by action upon the enemy. The other two are performed through direction of or action upon the one protected."

The premier pointed out that "The shield of David calls for two qualities in the men who accept it as their emblem. These two qualities constitute the secret of God, the Lord of Hosts. The first quality is obedience to the divine will. The Lord of Hosts makes allowance for ignorance but he rejects rebellion. If we want His divine protection we must acknowledge the Lord in all our ways and he will direct our paths.

"This is the first half of the secret of God which is the central theme of the British coat-of-arms."

The other quality is submission and trust. We should not fret nor worry if God is protecting us. Trust in the Lord and lean not upon thine own understanding is the Lord's command."

LORD OF HOSTS

Later he declared "Let all true Britishers gaze at their coat-of-arms and see that the central message around which everything else clusters is the shield of David, emblematic of the secret of the Lord of Hosts."

Premier Aberhart was assisted in the service by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry; Orvis A. Kennedy, M.P. for East Edmonton, and others.

Present day events in the light of prophecy were dealt with by the premier in the latter part of his service, when he dealt with probable happenings in Europe providing prophecies are fulfilled. He pointed out these events would not take place until after the Rapture.

HALIFAX, Nov. 6.—Drifting without a propeller, the 7,000-ton Norwegian freighter Selje last night awaited assistance off the coast of Newfoundland while a tug steamed to her rescue from Halifax.

The Selje, under charter to the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, wirelessed early Sunday she had lost her propeller between Newfoundland and Sydney. The Halifax salvage tug Foundation Franklin was expected to reach her today.

TROOPS BUSY CLEANING UP ENCAMPMENT

Lots Of Fatigue Duty Saturday—Church Parade Held Sunday

Attendance at church parade and divine service featured activities of Edmonton Garrison soldiers over the week-end. Following services, troops that could be spared were given leave for the rest of the day.

The Roman Catholic soldiers of the Garrison paraded to Sacred Heart church and attended service. Other soldiers of all units, paraded at the Prince of Wales Armory, where Rev. G. H. Storey, padre to the Edmonton Regiment, conducted the service.

Lieut.-Col. R. A. Wyman, acting Garrison Commandant was in charge of the parade.

CLEAN-UP DAY

Col. Wyman stated that troops had been actively engaged Saturday in a general clean-up of huts, the Prince of Wales Armory and area occupied by the Garrison.

Recreation facilities at the Garrison were heavily taxed over the week-end, with reading being one of the popular diversions.

It is expected that Brig. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., officer commanding Military District No. 13 and commander of the 2nd Brigade of the 1st Canadian Division, will visit this city about the middle of the week to inspect the Garrison.

BROWN IN EAST

Lieut. Col. E. Brown, M.M., Garrison Commandant, who is an Ottawa visitor, attending a meeting of the Canadian Infantry Association, is expected to return here Thursday.

During the week, Garrison officers and men will direct some attention to the Remembrance Day parade and associated commemorative functions to be held next Saturday.

PAN-CANADIAN UNION SEEKS GREATER UNITY

Direct result of the smashing defeat given the forces of "separation" in Quebec at the provincial election last month, formations throughout the Dominion of a "Pan-Canadian Union" to bring French-speaking Quebec and all the other parts of Canada closer together has been started in Montreal, it was reported at the week-end in a dispatch from the east.

Local associations of the organization will be established as quickly as possible, according to the plan.

Working for the maintenance of unity throughout Canada, the union will solicit goodwill among the different racial groups, the development of the Canadian spirit, progress in education, the organization of exchange visits between provinces, establishments of "holiday colonies" between the provinces, growth of bilingualism and other objectives aimed at tightening the ties of confederation and the improvement of living conditions in the Dominion. The union is determined that separation and subversive doctrines in other parts of Canada shall be wiped out, the dispatch said.

ALL CANADIAN BACON GOES TO FOOD MINISTRY

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—All Canadian bacon arriving in the United Kingdom since the first week of September has been requisitioned by the British ministry of food, the dominion agriculture department said last night.

Net return of this bacon, however, has been lower than the pre-war returns, despite a higher price, owing to increases in cost of ocean freight, marine insurance and exchange.

The department said various prices quoted by the British ministry of food are selling prices to the trade for bacon released by the ministry for sale to the civilian population in the United Kingdom and this may bear no definite relationship to the actual price being paid for Canadian bacon.

ARCTIC CHURCH WILL GET FLAG FOR MEMENTO

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—Bishop A. L. Fleming of the Arctic, Sunday received a flag at St. Paul's Anglican church here, commemorating the first visit of a governor of the Hudson's Bay company north of the Arctic circle.

Bishop Fleming will take the Hudson's Bay Company banner with him next spring and will hang it in the cathedral church of All Saints, Aklavik. For the first time in 200 years of the Hudson's Bay Company history, a governor crossed the Arctic circle by plane and reached Aklavik last June.

P. Ashley Cooper, governor of the company, decided to present one of his own flags to hang in the cathedral immediately opposite the banner of the governor-general of Canada.

Richard Bonnycastle of the head office came from Winnipeg to represent the governor at the ceremony.

Another Sacrifice For War

A luxuriant head of hair, nicely groomed, is desirable in piping times of peace. But when tin hats, gas masks and such appurtenances of war have to be hastily crammed over the cranium, hair is apt to be a handicap. So the British Tommy sacrifices his crowning glory to the great god Mars. Here is a typical scene in a Tommies' "barber shop" . . . somewhere in England, as the boys have their locks shorn before departing for France.

'Dear Sir: You're A Skunk'

Indignant writers of letters to editors have long maintained that some writers are skunks, but when a skunk becomes a writer, that's news. These aspiring scribblers are just three months old and they live quite amicably with Pat Turney, a dairyman near Houston, Tex. "Dear editor:" Sam Skunk is writing, "Just a note to protest against the fact that you writers seem to hold us skunks in bad odor . . ."

U-Boat Scores Again

Not long after this picture was taken the British liner "Yorkshire" plunged to an ocean grave some 300 miles off the Spanish coast where it was torpedoed by a German U-boat. Photo was snapped from the American freighter "Independence Hall" which rescued part of the crew.

Normandie And Queen Mary Guarded

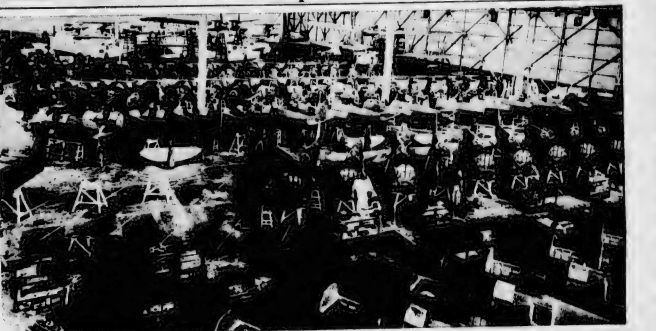

NEW YORK.—Police guard was doubled at the docks where France's super-liner Normandie and Britain's giant Queen Mary are docked following information that a plot to sabotage the world's two greatest ocean liners was afoot. The Queen Mary, at right, is painted a sober, camouflage grey, while the Normandie retains its customary black and white.

Aerial View Of The British Fleet—Backbone Of Empire

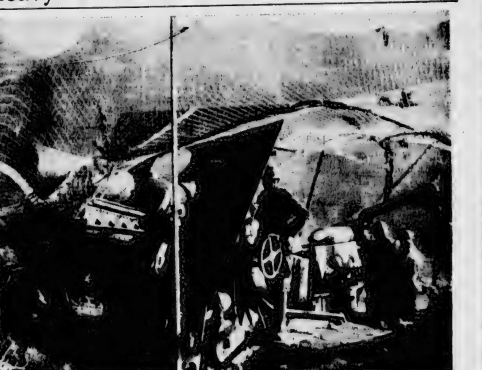

This picture, showing an excellent air view of the British fleet off the south coast of England, was passed by the British censor, who, however, deleted the exact location of the fleet from the caption. Note the countryside over which the plane is flying. Neat English hedges divide the plots of ground with uniformity.

British Plane Production Reported To Surpass Germany

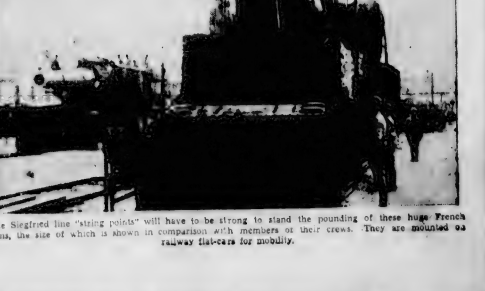

Swiftly stepping up production, Great Britain now reports that she has passed Germany in the quantity production of airplanes. Germany has boasted that it can produce planes at the rate of 1,000 a month and if necessary that this figure can be stepped up to 3,000. This factory, somewhere in England, shows a floor filled with Spitfire fighters in the making. These machines, each powered with a single Rolls-Royce engine, are the fastest single-engined fighters in service.

Heavy Howitzer At 10,000-Foot Altitude

While the major portion of France's army is entrenched on the western front the French Alps, too, are well-manned. Here is a view of 280 mm. howitzer which has been set up at an elevation of 10,000 feet. Note the camouflage netting over the weapon.

Mammoth Weapons On Western Front

Crystal-Balling

BEFORE today is over there will probably be a decision by President Dr. W. G. Hardy of the CAHA, as to the status of Joe Benoit, the Flying Frenchman from St. Albert who seems to be in more demand right now in the west than any other senior hockey player.

Joe played with Trail last season and was put on the reserve list of the Americans. They traded their option on him to Canadians and the latter club assigned Joe to their Verdun farm team—a senior amateur outfit. Joe didn't like Verdun and arrived back in Edmonton over the weekend.

Manager Don Stuart of the Flyers got on Benoit's trail and had him in to workout with the Flyers on Sunday morning at the Arena. Joe is claimed by Trail and coveted by Edmonton. He is also coveted by just about every senior outfit in the west. He doesn't know himself what he can or can not do about signing up for the coming season, so Dr. Hardy will endeavor to untangle the situation when he returns home today.

Last night Ira Stuart announced that he had obtained no definite commitment from Benoit, but was under the impression that he might sign a Flyer contract if sanction for such a signature is given by Dr. Hardy.

There is no doubt but what Benoit would fit into the Flyers perfectly and boom the title chances of the team plenty. He'll get goals in double figures in any amateur league around the west.

It seems hard to understand why Joe would be allowed by the CAHA to play senior amateur hockey at Verdun if he will not be allowed to do the same thing in Edmonton.

Charity Game on Wednesday

IN THE meantime Coach Eddie O'Keefe continues to drive and polish his Flyers with daily workouts. The team takes the ice from eight to nine o'clock tonight at the Arena and will have a light drill again on Tuesday. Wednesday night the fans will get a chance to see the team in action when a charity game will be staged. The Flyers' opposition will be the new E.A.C. Juniors augmented by a number of senior and intermediate players from the various units in the Edmonton Garrison. The starting time is 8:30 p.m. and the Sunshine Fund benefits exclusively.

This tilt will be interesting in that it will be a preview of both the Flyers and E.A.C. Incidentally, what became of the name "Roamers" that was attached without permission to the Edmonton Athletic Club Juniors? It was apparently a bright idea to link the team up with Lester Patrick's system of "R" teams without the authority of the Edmonton Athletic Club which was only sponsoring the team and paying the bills. The name was never accepted by the club and that is why you never saw it on The Bulletin sport pages until today.

Crystal-Balling the Loop

ON NOVEMBER 15 the Olds Elks under Coach Frank Collenette are here to open opposition Alcock Senior Seven Hockey League—and there is a chance of seeing between the Elks and Flyers to insure the opener being the hottest that Edmonton has witnessed in many a year. Knowing a bit of the inside, I'm suggesting that you'll miss really torrid hockey if you pass up any Flyer-Elk game this season. There seems to be enough fans around who appreciate the set-up to insure the Arena being packed the night they open here.

At this time the Alberta League seems definitely stronger than it was a year ago, but that is ruling it off paper. Leithbridge still looks like the outfit that has to be beaten, while Calgary, Coleman and Turner Valley shape up as clubs that will be mighty hard to stop. Frank Coulson is likely to spring a sensation if he ever gets his Co-operative Kids clicking. Drumheller is somewhat of a question mark at the moment, but the Miners have always been tough citizens on hockey ice and they are likely to continue as such.

Our own Flyers look more promising than I like to admit. I'd rather see them earn their plaudits as they go than have them heaped on gratis at the start. Coach Eddie O'Keefe has a grand chance to make a name for himself in the coaching business if he can get the hockey out of the players that they appear to have latent in their systems. I think fans can rely on seeing really entertaining senior games here this winter and it looks as if the Flyers will win their share. It's far too early however to go farther than that.

TABLE TENNIS COMPETITION EVEN-STEPHEN

Scona Has Slight Lead With Uncle Ben's in Second Position

The scores in the second week of play in the Edmonton Table Tennis League show that the teams are well balanced and are living up to the executive's expectations.

Scona still leads with 22 points with Uncle Ben's in sole possession of second place just 2 points behind. Both these teams won their matches by 11-5 scores while the rest of the teams played close matches of the 9-7 or 8-8 variety.

Monday and Friday are the days set aside for the scheduled matches in the new four-team ladies' league, which start next week. On Monday Norma Wood's team will meet June Boyce's while on Friday Jo Ouellette's will meet the Government Tel. Anyone interested in table tennis for ladies are invited to attend on these nights and see the girls play. There is room for more teams in the league.

The club this year is inaugurating a series of tournaments designed to give the members tournament experience and prepare them for the city and provincial championships. The first of these events comes next Saturday in which seniors and juniors will participate.

Draw for week ending Nov. 10—Monday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m., Youngbloods vs C.N.R.; Tuesday, at 7:30 Scona vs Ballin; Tuesday, at 8:30 La Salle vs Ed. Bad. Club; Wednesday at 7:30 Uncle Ben's vs Westmount; Thursday at 7:30 Varsity vs Dodgers, Friday at 7:30, Glenoras vs Outlaws.

ED. M'SPORRAN TO FIGHT GUILD HERE ON FRIDAY

Continuing his gallant attempt at a comeback, Eddie McSporran, not too long ago Edmonton's pride in middleweight ranks, will try for a third win when he tackles the speedy Guild at the Memorial Hall from Strome, Alta., in a 10-round bout at the Memorial Hall and will feature a Canadian Legion boxing card. The date is Friday and the time at 9 p.m.

Despite his two defeats, his last by a very scant margin, Eddie has continued to train seriously and even hits a more strenuous grind. He is the best comeback since his retirement of a year ago. Guild is far from being a "set-up" in fact he will be stern opposition for the chunky little gamester who hopes to come through this time.

HOCKEY CHIEF

REGINA, Nov. 6—A. C. McLeod, Anderson of Delisle, home of the famous Bengough hockey family, was elected president of the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association Saturday.

Canadiens' Speedy Threesome

In the concluding weeks of the campaign last year Canadiens' fans were thrilled by the performances of this nimble trio. Left to right they are Rod Lorrain, Paul Drouin and Louis Trudel, the latter from Edmonton. Last night at Montreal this trio proved even more spectacular as they featured in two of the eight Canadien goals as the Habitants drubbed the Black Hawks from Chicago 8-2. Trudel started out smartly—he has two points now.

Burke Builds Young, Powerful Hockey Squad for Calgary Fans

CALGARY, Nov. 6.—Calgary Stampeders, cellar occupants of the Alberta Senior Hockey League a year ago, today looked like "potential" Allan cup timber as Coach Marty Burke, former National League luminary, trained his collection of "ivory," gathered from Ontario to the Pacific coast.

Ten months ago when President Jim Cross realized his club had a hopeless task in their attempt to bring the Allan cup, emblematic of senior hockey supremacy in the dominion, to Alberta for the first time, he laid plans for the 1939-40 campaign.

From Saskatoon, he secured Burke, coach of the Quakers last winter and the former professional defenceman who starred with Montreal Canadiens and 3½ years with Chicago Black Hawks, lost no time in grabbing Art Rice Jones of Winnipeg. Jones blockaded Ottawa Primroses in 1931 to help Winnipeg Elmwood Millionaires capture the Canadian junior championship. He showed only three goals in the three-game series.

STRONG DEFENCE

Then Burke scrapped half of the 1938-39 Stampeder squad and built a strong defence around Jones, who performed at Geraldton...an Ontario mining centre, last winter. Chuck Millman, a chunky St. Catharines youth, weighing 205 pounds, was tabbed at his Stratford, Ont., home while Tommy Dewar, last winter's Moose Jaw Millers defenceman, was told of the hockey-mad football hills city here. These two may make the strongest defence pair of the new season.

An open race developed for Stampeders' second defence couple. Elton McFadden, former Saskatoon junior who came here last fall, Pat Hill, ex-Lethbridge Maple Leafan, and Gordon Dailley of Winnipeg, recently of Wembley Lions, England's National League champions, are battling it out.

ACE FRONT STRING

Demarais was tabbed as pivot for the second line, flanked by Bill Gauf from Olds Elks and Cam Burke, a Calgary left winger last winter. A third line will feature Patrick at right wing, Howie Hill, late of Turner Valley Oilers, in centre, and either Les Thirlwell or Jimmy Jempson, Stampeders veterans, for the left lane.

Reay, who came to Calgary from St. Boniface, Man., 1938 Canadian junior champions, has definitely outlined the club he will return to Calgary. However, if he changes his decision, Burke has visions of moving Bill Gauf to the left wing of the first line with Patrick moving up to the second line right wing spot.

Others trying out are Joe Shannon, Calgary homebrew who last year was at Nelson, B.C., and goalie Jim Mamaras, who shared duties with Gordie Hemming last season.

As the Calgary entry guns for its fifth Alberta senior title since 1920, their true aim is to reach the Allan cup finals for the first time since 1912 when the Calgary Hockey Club met Winnipeg Victorias during the period when the cup was a challenge prize.

Average age of Stampeders is 24.

A nickel contains more copper than nickel.

MAJOR UPSET IN U.S. SPRUNG BY ILLINOIS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Illinois, coached by Wily Bob Zuppke, sprang the football upset to end all upsets Saturday. Tied by Bradley, beaten by Southern California, Indiana and Northwestern and conceded no chance to win, Illinois stepped wild-running Tom Harmon and Michigan, 16-7, in one of the most astonishing reversals of the year.

Harmon, touted a greater back than Red Grange, former Illinois star, never got a chance to get under way. The defeat was Michigan's first of the season.

Notre Dame, capitalizing on every break, routed Army 14-0.

Iowa's Hawkeyes scored an unexpected 4-0 triumph over Purdue's Boilermarkers, while Northwestern's Wildcats upset Minnesota 14-7 thanks to a 61-yard touchdown run by young Bill de Correvont. Ohio state performed as expected in rolling over Indiana 24-0.

Tennessee stopped Louisiana state's passing team of Leo Bird and Ken Kavanaugh cold in romping to a 20-0 triumph that left the volunteers undefeated, untied and unscored upon.

Oklahoma, tied by Southern Methodist but unbeaten, crushed Iowa state 38-6 to take another stride toward a second straight big six title. Cornell had to block two kicks in order to get past stubborn Columbia 13-7.

The east, once more, held an edge in intersectional warfare. Against the army defeat and Syracuse's 14-3 beating by Michigan state, the Atlantic seaboard could point to Fordham's 13-7 defeat of Rice, Duquesene's 21-13 conquest of Marquette, Boston College's sensational 13-7 victory over Auburn and Villanova's 13-6 defeat of Detroit with Nick Basca throwing two touchdown passes.

Edmonton Club Curlers Called

The Edmonton Curling Club will hold its semi-annual smoker in the club rooms at the rink tonight, Monday, at 8:00 o'clock. All members are urged to be on hand and bring friends and prospective members. Plans for a fine season will be discussed.

Saskatchewan Gets New Hockey Trophy

REGINA, Nov. 6.—A new trophy has been accepted by the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association as a fitting memorial to the late Goldie Smith of Melville, long a leader in hockey, who died during the summer of 1938.

Kenny Mayhew of Yorkton presented the trophy, to be known as the Goldie Smith memorial trophy, for competition in bantam ranks.

SOCCER CLUBS SETTLE DOWN TO WAR BASIS

LONDON, Nov. 6.—An unofficial international match at Everton provided a stimulus to the United Kingdom's wartime football program at the week-end. Fifteen thousand spectators, the maximum allowed for the game, saw an all-English team and a football league eleven battle to a 3-3 draw.

Attendances at regional matches in England and Scotland showed improvement over the previous week. Goals were not as plentiful as in the preceding two weeks indicating a general tightening of defences.

C. Negus, Fulham sharpshooter scored three goals for the Scottish team for the second week in succession in England credit for the hat-trick went to D. Brown, Charlton Athletic; R. Farrell, Brighton, and W. Wrackmore.

RANGERS WIN THIRD

Rangers defeated Ayr United 2-0 to chalk up their third straight win in Scotland's west section. The light blues' goals were registered by Galloway and Gilmour. Celtic, old rival of Rangers, has proved a big disappointment in the campaign to date. Although playing at home, the greenshirts went under by three goals to Queen of the South, whose goals went to the credit of Connor and Law.

Selkirk and Dunfermline are the only clubs with full points in the eastern group. The former, with Napier on top of the scoring chart, trounced East Fife, 6-2 at Methil and Dunfermline edged out a 3-2 verdict over King's Park.

DAI DOES IT

In English games Dai Astley, Welsh International, reappeared for Charlton Athletic and scored one of the London squad's eight goals in their 8-1 victory over Clapton Orient. Fulham introduced a 17-year-old centre-forward named Fisher against Aldershot. The youngster scored two goals in his team's 3-1 victory.

Group leaders and their point totals in the various sections follow:

England—South "A", Arsenal, six; South "B", Reading, Fulham, five.

Southwest—Swindon Town, six; Midland, Birmingham, six; East Midland; Barnsley Grimsby Town, four; Western; Manchester, six; northeast; Newcastle United, six.

Scotland—West; Rangers, six; east; Falkirk, Dunfermline, six.

B.C. Thunderbirds Remain Unbeaten

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—University of British Columbia kept intact their unbeaten unified big four Canadian football league record Saturday when they trounced North Shore Lions 9-0

It was the fifth straight victory for the Collegians, for years the underdogs in the city league schedule.

Varsity counted a rouge in the second quarter after a scoreless first, added a converted touchdown by Ernie Teagle and a touch in goal and a rouge in the fourth.

U.S. Pro Football

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Saturday scores in U.S. pro football follow: Green Bay Packers 27, Chicago Bears 30; Chicago Cardinals 0, Cleveland 14; Philadelphia Eagles 6, Washington Red Skins 7; New York Giants 14, Detroit Lions 19; Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, postponed, rain and cold.

Habitants Feature N.H.L. Show Sunday

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—Montreal Canadiens, given no consideration in pre-season predictions, overwhelmed Chicago Black Hawks 8-2 last night in an auspicious National Hockey League home start before about 7,000 fans.

The Flying Frenchmen swarmed all over the Hawks for four goals in the first period, three in the second and one in the third. Hawks scored their goals in the third period. Although the Canadiens tallied eight goals, only one man—George Manina—got two.

Other Montreal goals went to Rod Lorrain, Cy Wentworth, Marty Barry, Toe Blake, Bay Getliffe and Louis Trudel. The Chicago marksmen were Mush March and Johnny Gottselig.

Wentworth, Montreal's rushing defenceman, came out with the most points of the night, for besides his goal he aided in three others.

HILLER'S THIRD-PERIOD GOAL GIVES RANGERS 1-1 TIE AGAINST DETROIT

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—A goal by Dutch Hiller late in the third period gained New York Rangers a 1-1 draw with Detroit Red Wings Sunday in the opening game here of the National League campaign.

Ten thousand fans watched Hiller tie the score in the last three minutes to regular play after Gus Giesbrecht, Detroit centre, put Wings in the lead midway of the second period, counting on a shot from just inside the blue line. Both goals were scored on solo dashes.

Detroit blew a fine chance in the opening period when the Rangers were shorthanded for five minutes as the result of Lynn Patrick's major penalty for slashing Scotty Bowman.

Rangers not only kept Detroit at bay during the five minutes but threatened several times themselves with the brilliant Neil Colville doing most of the puck work.

TORONTO, Nov. 6. — Toronto Maple Leafs humbled the world champion Boston Bruins 5-0 Saturday night as they presented a made-over team to 12,000 first-night National Hockey League customers.

The reliable scoring line of Syl Apps, Gordon Drillon and Bob Davidson contributed four goals but Leafs showed strength through-out, although Captain Red Horner and Don Metz were on the sidelines with injuries. Two 20-year-old rookies, Wally Stanowski and Billy Taylor, and the veteran Sweeney Schriner, from New York Americans, figured actively.

Boston, playing without the great Eddie Shore, had little more than a goal in Frank Brimsek and a Czechoslovakian line of Milt Schmidt, Wendy Dumart and Bobby Bauer to combat Leafs' speed and condition. Shore will play in nine of Bruins' road games.

CALGARY SCUTTLES REGINA 24-17 IN SEMI-FINAL

Bronks' Rally Wins Daffy Playoff Tilt

REGINA, Nov. 6.—A gallant Calgary Bronk football team moved into the western Canada final with Winnipeg Blue Bombers by defeating Regina Roughriders 24-17 Saturday in the daffiest game of the season here. Only 3,000 spectators saw the sudden-death playoff despite summer-like weather.

Victory sent Bronks into the final for the third successive season and gave Calgary another chance to cop the title that has eluded them since 1911. The two-game, total-point series opens in Winnipeg next Saturday.

Bronks presented Roughriders with three touchdowns and were behind 11-0 early in the game, but Riders returned the compliment by handing the Calgary team two soft touchdowns and the power-laden Alberta backfield did the rest. Roughriders were badly outplayed as plunging Paul Rowe, the western conference's leading scorer, injured their line to shreds and showed the way as Bronks piled up 21 first downs to Regina's two. The 'Rider attack was stopped cold in the final Calgary line and it was a continual downfield march by the winners.

ROWE LED WAY

Rowe smashed his way across the Regina line for two touchdowns while Wolfie Hughes and Bizz Bisbing scored one apiece. Harry Guest, Howard Cleveland and Dean Griffing accounted for the three Regina majors.

Bronks were never ahead until the last minute of the third quarter when Rowe plunged for his second touchdown. They were never in danger after that. Regina led 6-0 in the first quarter, the score was tied at half time and 18-17 for Calgary at the three-quarter mark.

The game wasn't many minutes old when Roughriders got their first break. Bronks had moved to the Regina five from their own 43 when Rowe fumbled on second down and Harry Guess dribbled the ball all the way up the field with both teams in pursuit. Frank Stein fell on the ball across the line, but fumbled and Guest recovered. Springstein converted.

STOPPED AT GOAL

From centre field, Bronks immediately started another march with Lyn Warren in a starring role, but it was halted at the Regina nine-yard line as Rowe was held on third down with two yards to go to move the clicks.

On the first play of the second quarter Dean Griffing intercepted Warren's pass and tossed a lateral to Cleveland, but Roughriders tossed away the advantage when Rowe intercepted Cleveland's pass on the Calgary 35.

A few plays later Warren tried another pass from centre field, Griffing again intercepted and charged downfield. Just as he was tackled he heaved a long lateral to Cleveland and the Regina backfielder broke away from two tacklers to go to the Calgary five before Bob Cosgrove forced him out of bounds. Cleveland went over on a reverse on second down, but the snap was bad and there was no convert.

SOON SET BACK

The 11-point lead was wiped out in less than five minutes. Regina had knocked down Bisbing's punt on the goal line and took possession 25 yards out when Cleveland fired a pass intended for Eaberg on first down. Hal Harrison intercepted and his short lateral sent Hughes into the clear. The Calgary quarterback sprinted 30 yards without being challenged for a touchdown. Bisbing converted.

From the kickoff Bronks marched from their own 38 to the Regina 16 on four plays by Weaver, Bisbing and Larry Haynes. Rowe charged over the left side on next down for the touchdown but the convert was no good.

Griffing again sent Regina into the lead in the third quarter as he picked up Warren's fumble on a wide end run and galloped 35 yards for his first touchdown since joining the Roughriders four years ago. The crowd went wild as Springstein kicked the convert.

BRONKS KEEP FIGHTING

But Bronks weren't to be denied and got a single point a minute later as Bisbing's quick kick from centre field enabled Rowe to rouge Guest. The pressure increased after that and the stage was set for a touchdown when Lander's kick from behind his own goal line skidded into touch 15 yards out. Gilkes and Bisbing made a first down, then Rowe bowled over three tacklers as he charged across on next down. Rowe kicked the convert himself to put Bronks ahead for the first time 18-17.

Regina didn't have a chance in the last quarter. Rollo Edberg completed a 26-yard pass from Cleveland but was knocked cold on the play and left the game. Bisbing went over from the 30-yard line behind good blocking for the last touchdown which Rowe converted.

GONZAGA TEAM GAINS ENTRY IN KOOTENAYS

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Nov. 6.—A new playing setup for the West Kootenay Hockey League to include Gonzaga University of Spokane, Wash., was approved Saturday at the annual meeting of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association.

Delegates passed a special resolution to admit the American team to competition in the interior league which twice has produced world amateur hockey champions, Kimberley Dynamiters in 1936 and Trail Smoke Eaters in 1938.

Gonzaga will play their regular conference games in Washington, beside competing with the Smoke Eaters, Dynamiters and Nelson Maple Leafs in the W.K.H.L. They will not, however, be eligible to compete for the Savage cup, representing the amateur championship of British Columbia and the right to compete in the Allan cup playdowns.

Art Jefferd of Vancouver told the delegates that coast officials did not yet feel they can produce hockey of a high enough calibre to compete in West Kootenay League.

The venue of the 1940 provincial Allan cup playdowns was left to the decision of the executive.

The association widened its field of activity by taking on the sponsorship of juvenile hockey. A trophy, to be known as the Monarch Life cup, will represent the juvenile championship of British Columbia.

REEVE TO QUIT GRID COACHING

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—Ted Reeve, Toronto newspaperman and former football star, has "had enough" of coaching and will not be back next year at the helm of Montreal Winged Wheels who have won a game in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union in two seasons.

"I'm quitting this coaching business and going back to the comparative comfort of newspaper life," Reeve announced during the week-end. "I've had my share of football and the game has been good to me, but I know when I've had enough."

This is Reeve's first season with Royals. A former Toronto Balmy Beach player, he coached Queen's University of Kingston, Ont., before coming here.

Argos, Ottawa to Meet For Big Four Grid Crown

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts again will play off for the Big Four football title. This was assured Saturday when Rough Riders polished off Montreal Royals 27-0 at Ottawa and Argos, playing at home, eked out a 9-8 decision over Hamilton Tigers. The winning teams are tied with eight points apiece and next Saturday's league finale can have no effect on the status.

In other eastern Canada grid battles Toronto Balmy Beach hammered Montreal Westmounts 23-1 and gained a tie with the losers for leadership of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union. Each team has seven points.

Sarnia invaded Peterborough for a 13-0 win in the other O.R.F.U. joust. Victory placed Sarnia one point behind the leaders. University of Western Ontario Mustangs mainly tained their undefeated record in the senior intercollegiate union by trouncing University of Toronto 15-1 while the second place Queens' University squad doubled the score on McGill 12-6 at Montreal.

Four touchdowns, three of them converted, a field goal and a rouge was the scoring melange Ottawa served on Royals before 6,000 fans in the capital. Murray Griffin's fine quarterbacking set off all Rider scoring plays.

It was well for the Argos that Annis Stukus was around Saturday to kick a seemingly impossible field goal, for that payoff shot in the last quarter squeezed out victory over Tigers before 8,000 fans. Stukus, standing on the 17-yard line and 10 yards from the sideline at his right, put the ball squarely between the posts.

HARDY MOOTS PLAN TO AID WAR WIDOWS

REGINA, Nov. 6.—Dr. W. G. Hardy, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, suggested in an address to the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association here Saturday that the C.A.H.A. establish a patriotic fund.

From it, he suggested, allowances might be made for widows of sportsmen killed in action.

Dr. Hardy made the suggestion while reviewing the organization's financial position, its agreements with the National Hockey League and "the British problem."

JUNIORS NEEDED

"If our juniors go, we have lost the basis for our hockey," remarked Dr. Hardy as he explained the amateur-pro agreement which bars professional teams from signing players of junior age. The rule has been under fire by several N.H.L. teams.

"We must protect our juniors although we are co-operating in every way with the professionals, the United States and Great Britain. It is by developing these juniors that we are able to supply them with players.

BRITISH ANGLE

"The British problem is one we must face squarely. Had it not been for the war, some 80 seniors would have gone to England and another 60 had applied for transfers to Scotland. That would have resulted in a serious shortage of material. We must always watch the British angle."

Dr. Hardy asserted the strides the C.A.H.A. has been in recent years and expressed the opinion that the public was satisfied with the entertainment offered. "We spent something like $80,000 on travelling and living expenses for teams in the playoffs last spring," he said, "and still made a profit of $58,000. Some $30,000 has already gone back into hockey and other sports by way of grants." He explained the C.A.H.A. was now in a sound financial position and profits in future would be turned back in some way.

Lethbridge Leafs Win Over Saskatoon Quakers

SASKATOON, Nov. 6.—A last-minute goal by "Putt" Holditch off a pass from Joe MacArthur, the former Port Arthur Bearcat, gave Lethbridge Maple Leafs a 4-3 victory over Saskatoon Quakers in a pre-season exhibition hockey game here Saturday night before 1,900 fans.

The first game of the four-game series played here Thursday night ended in a 5-5 tie. The third and fourth games will be played at Lethbridge on November 13 and 15.

The Leafs, playing without Doug French, who was on the sidelines with a torn ligament, scored the only goal of the first period as Jimmy McIndoe took Bob Kirkpatrick's short pass in the Quaker goal mouth and beat Ron Pickell with an easy shot which never left the ice. The Quaker goalie made his move at the wrong time.

QUAKERS TIE IT

The Quakers deadlocked the score after 48 seconds of play in the second period with Ab Welsh beating Andy Young from close range. Welsh found the puck on his stick after Max Bentley's attempted pass had been deflected by Ken Stewart's skate.

Dunc Farmer put the Quakers into the lead midway in the period on a double passing play with Max Bentley. There was no scoring while Dunc Farmer served a penalty for tripping his brother Dave, nor while Benny Hayes was in the penalty box for hooking Mel Neilsen. Johnny Urzaki drew a misconduct penalty.

KENNEDY GETS ONE

Paul Kowel and Kennedy were penalized for high-sticking before Dunc Farmer circled around behind the Lethbridge net and came out in front of the goal to slide the puck past Young for the tying goal.

U.S. ELECTION CAMPAIGN TO CLOSE TODAY

New Pension Proposals Highlight Contests In Two States

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Campaigns close today in off-year United States election contests highlighted by controversies in California and Ohio over pension proposals.

While New York voters are deciding Tuesday whether the state shall legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse races and Kentuckians and Mississippians are choosing governors, Californians will be balloting again upon a pension plan similar in some respects to the so-called "ham and egg" proposal they rejected a year ago. The plan would authorize payments of $30 in state warrants every Thursday to unemployed persons over 50.

KENTUCKY IMPORTANT

Ohioans will register their ballots for or against a pension plan which calls for payments of $50 a month to single persons and $80 to couples who are retired wage earners or of 30 or older.

The outcome of the Kentucky gubernatorial election may provide some hint as to the attitude of the public of that state toward the national defence administration. Although most of the issues are local, Circuit Judge King Swope, Republican, who has attacked Roosevelt policies in his campaign, Governor Keen Johnson, the former lieutenant-governor, who succeeded to the governorship when A. B. Chandler resigned to go to the United States Senate, has campaigned on the record of the Chandler-Johnson administration.

GOVERNOR UNOPPOSED

Mississippi's election amounts to formal ratification of a state ticket selected at the Democratic primary. Judge Paul B. Johnson, the candidate for governor, is without opposition.

The Congress of Industrial Organizations again is an issue in Detroit, where a non-partisan mayoralty contest finds Mayor Richard Reading opposed by Edward Jeffries, Jr., president of the city council. Reading, a 25-ton two years ago over C. I. O. opposition, has contended Jeffries is favorable to the C.I.O. movement. Jeffries has denied bias in favor of any group.

Trail-Blazing Cyclists Will Be Sought Soon

British United Press

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 6.—Bearing Alaskan mementoes for the New York World's Fair, John T. Logan and Charles C. Silmi Williams left Juneau recently on a motorcycle hoping to prove the feasibility of the proposed international highway from the Arctic Circle to Mexico.

The New York fair has closed and the first stage of the journey is at an end, except for an occasional report from Indians, there has been no word of Logan and Silmi since Portland, Ore., youth, and his 38-year old sourdough companion. The last report was weeks ago.

Today provincial police agreed to dispatch airplanes—as soon as weather permits—in search of the men. Dr. A. H. Logan, prominent surgeon at the Mayor Clinic, offered personally to guarantee the expense of the search.

Today believed Logan and Williams would be found somewhere in the headwaters of the Fraser river where the international highway is merely a series of surveyors' stakes. The project was temporarily sidetracked when the European war broke out.

SPYING HAS LOST GLAMOR PAPER SAYS

British United Press

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Spying has lost its glamor, according to the French publication "Medical Age." The seductive blonde and vampirish brunette have disappeared—army officers have become too sophisticated to be dazzled by them—and in their place, are narcotic addicts.

The publication said that narcotics have become a vital part of the German espionage. Agents hunt out addicts, especially women, in the allied countries, furnish them general quantities of narcotics, then cut off the supply abruptly. When the victims have become "dope hungry" and desperate, they are used as spies, with the promise of narcotics if they succeed.

WATERS CLAIM TWO LIVES IN ALBERTA, B. C.

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

VEGREVILLE, Alta., Nov. 6. — Breaking through sun-rotted ice while skating on the Vermilion river, Peter Romaniuk, 15, of Vegreville, was drowned Sunday noon. Believed to be the victim of cramps, the boy is reported to have suddenly collapsed over a log which had been pushed out by the rescuers, and slid off into the water. The body was recovered following an hour's dragging operations.

Rupert Lemieux, also of Vegreville, who went through the ice at the same time, was rescued.

POUCE COUPE, Nov. 6.—George Lefferson, three, of the Pouce Coupe district, was drowned Saturday in a creek about one-half mile from his home at Gundy in the Pouce Coupe district. The tot wandered away from his home during the afternoon and was not discovered in the creek later in the day by his parents. The family has resided in the district for several years.

WAR DEAD TO BE HONORED ON SATURDAY

OTTAWA, Nov. 6—Arrangements went forward today for the annual Remembrance day service at Canada's national shrine, the Peace Tower of the parliament buildings where the Dominion soldiery of today will gather with veterans of other wars to pay brilliant tribute to those who fell in 1914-18.

Throughout Canada, from the largest city to the tiniest hamlet, civic authorities and local ex-servicemens for Nov. 11. But this service on Parliament Hill will be broadcast from coast to coast as a tribute to those who died in the first great war and to Canada's current war effort.

It will be a simple service in the presence of the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir; Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Canadian dignitaries of church and state, the diplomatic corps and consular representatives of many countries.

Depreciation Of Dollar Asked By Premier Hepburn

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 6.—Premier Hepburn questioned regarding difficulties in marketing Canada's tobacco crop abroad, advocated Sunday the Canadian dollar be put on a parity with the British pound.

"The depreciation of our dollar is inevitable if we buy heavily of war materials and not sell heavily to United States," Mr. Hepburn said. "I would advocate depreciating our dollar at once and not wait until our munitions buying brings it about."

Cronin's Juniors Beaten In Playoff

CALGARY, Nov. 6.—Calgary east end juniors Saturday handed Carl Cronin's west end Tornadoes their first setback of the season, by a 7-2 score that put the latter out of the provincial junior football championship. Tornadoes trimmed east ends twice during the city league schedule.

Rank Outsider Cops Handicap Feature

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Nov. 6.—H. A. Coward's U-Boat, a 40 to 1 shot, won the $5,000 added Worcester handicap at Narragansett Park Saturday. A head back of her was W. F. Maunsell's Liberty Flight, two and a half lengths in front of H. E. Engel's Zole.

Flags Missing

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—Flags of Canada, British, France and the other Allies will be missing from the Detroit parade marking Armistice Day. For the first time, the Stars and Stripes will be the only flags carried by the veterans. Officials in charge of the parade said this plan seeks to emphasize United States' neutrality in the present war.

Intensification Of Sea Warfare Nazi Reaction To Repeal

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Authoritative German sources declared today that the lifting of the United States arms embargo was "unneutral" and intensified sea warfare appeared a likely consequence.

"American arms have been made available to our enemies," informed persons commented, "but these materials will have to get past our raiders."

These sources also indicated in view of the loss of the United States freighter City of Flint—taken from a German prize crew and handed over by Norwegian authorities to her American personnel—that Germany would deal more ruthlessly with contraband shipments.

On the western front, where the German high command yesterday found nothing noteworthy to report, there was "Somewhat livelier reconnoitering activity in several sectors," and "weak artillery fire," a spokesman today said.

The Berliner Montagspost directly blamed the president for lifting the embargo.

"The American president proved again that business—first of all and in any case—always remains the primary object," the newspaper asserted. ". . . Here Roosevelt and American war agitators and warmongers promise themselves the big business."

NO WORD PRINTED

While the newspapers editorialized on the Washington development, not a word was printed about the loss of the City of Flint.

Other sources, however, pointed to the fact that if the City of Flint had been sunk when the pocket battleship Deutschland captured her Oct. 9 instead of being taken as a prize there would be no chance now that her cargo would reach Britain.

CALIFORNIAN SEEKS REPORT PENSION PLAN

Pastor Asks Mayor For Low-Down On "Ham-and-Egg" Scheme

On Wednesday when Edmonton citizens go to the polls to elect a mayor and half a council, Californians will go to their polls to elect a state legislature and to vote for or against a state pension scheme of "$30 every Thursday," otherwise known as the "ham and egg" plan.

Californians want to know about Alberta and, apparently, believe that this province has such a plan operating.

Mayor John W. Fry on Monday received a request for information from Rev. O. V. Wilkinson, First Christian church, Santa Rosa, California.

IS BUSY MAN

Addressing his letter to "the Lord Mayor of Edmonton," the skeptical pastor said, "I would like from you in your position, a statement concerning the working of this 'Ham and Eggs' proposition now being so zealously publicized in our state. Being a very busy pastor I have no time to become familiar with it and for my own satisfaction I would like to know how the plan works in your country."

The minister asked several specific questions and enclosed a couple of "mock" certificates, printed to resemble banknotes with a picture of Santa Claus, a rainbow and, at the end of the rainbow, a pot of wooden nickels. It was labelled "exeemunny certificate."

this country, to the best of their ability, a better place to live in.

DISTRIBUTE PROFITS

The state, through education, especially in schools, affects the lives and futures of those passing through the grades. It was felt that the state could do much to even up the distribution of materials and the profits made from the manufacture of same.

Summing up the discussion, it was pointed out that the utmost belief must be in the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, and insofar as the nation and the state does that the people have every duty toward the government, such as paying taxes, making ourselves as fully informed as possible and using any influence possible which would result in the mutual aid to the nation and the individual.

COURAGEOUS SPIRIT

Reporting on the international missionary conference held in Madras, India, last December, Violet Tennant, of Toronto, Dominion girls' work secretary, stated that the delegates from the African churches had presented a challenge to the eastern churches. Despite suffering and persecution, the African missionaries have shown a greater spirit of courage and adventure than that displayed in other countries. Attending the Madras council were 474 delegates from 69 different countries and areas.

HOLD BANQUET

Delegates to the conference attended a banquet arranged at Central United church, and the discussions groups again met later in the evening. The program on Saturday concluded with vespers.

A social gathering took place at Bissell Memorial Institute Sunday afternoon. Miss Lillian Carscadden, provincial secretary of girls' work in Alberta, was in charge of the leaders' church service during the evening.

Transfer Of Trade Commission Office Is Proposed Here

Possibility that the provincial trade commissioner's office in Toronto may be transferred to Ottawa in order to maintain contact with the Dominion War Purchasing Board was suggested to Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, by a delegation from the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce which interviewed him on Saturday.

The Toronto office is in charge of E. F. Clarry and up until now has mainly dealt with the marketing of Alberta coal in Ontario.

The delegation consisted of Colin D. MacKenzie, president, and Fred Blue, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Manning promised full consideration of all representations, but gave no definite assurance of any action.

Through The Mill

The lugs are hungry, see, and they don't have even a sniff in their jeans. So they walk down Jasper avenue and look in the windows. They pull in their belts. But they keep on getting hungry and pretty soon they are desperate. So they walk right into a downtown grubbery and put on the feed bag for a couple of $5 cent meals. Then they feel better. The waitress asks if they'll have it all on the one check and they say sure on account of they know it isn't going to make any difference. Then, picking up the matches, they saunter up to the cash counter and tell the boss of the joint they have no bucks with which to pay for the meal which they have just enjoyed so much. It takes him about ten minutes to calm down enough to call the cops.

The lugs say calm down buddy we are willing to wash dishes until the account is squared, but the boss comes back that he already has a dishwasher. So the boys are trailed off to jail. In police court Monday they plead guilty to a charge of obtaining a meal by fraud. The magistrate points out that we can't have this sort of thing going on even if people are going around hungry, so he arranges for them to get food cards and a place to sleep down at the government's country estate at Fort Saskatchewan.

Another guy pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving, but he objected when the cop pranced into the witness box with a story about there being kids and pedestrians on the road. But the beak says $15 and costs or 21 days, and the guy says, "Okay, I'll pay it." And like the little Red Hen, he did.

Unable To Speak

Ald. Douglas A. Grout announced today that he regretted he would not be able to speak at the election campaign meetings tonight, owing to pressure of business. He would be out to speak at Tuesday night's meetings, he said.

It has been estimated that approximately 40,000,000 persons in the United States are improperly housed.

LAND IS BEARING EXCESSIVE TAXES OPTIMISTS HEAR

Land is now compelled to bear an excessive amount of taxation, J. J. Duggan, in charge of the Edmonton tax research bureau, told the Optimist Club Monday noon at the Macdonald.

"In regard to the financing of education," Mr. Duggan said, "we must get rid of the prevailing parochial outlook, by greater centralization of the service, and by far more generous grants from wider sources of taxation than are now available.

"The present practice of charging almost the entire cost to land by the imposition of excessive taxation has become out of date, and must be changed and a broader base discovered."

Mr. Duggan said one of the purposes of the tax research bureau was "to endeavor by various means to secure additional grants from the provincial government to education so that the present burden of cost now borne by Edmonton taxpayers may be substantially reduced."

Another purpose, he added, "was to watch the new assessment now being made by officials of the government with respect to the Social Service Tax, and to carry on a campaign aiming at its early abolition."

JUVENILES IN TOILS OF LAW AFTER CRIMES

City Boy and Vancouver Youth Face Assault and Robbery Counts

Two juveniles were in the South Side police station awaiting hearing of serious charges preferred against them by city police following their arrest on Saturday. One of the youths, a 15-year-old city boy is charged with having broken into eight city homes and one parked automobile. The other, a 17-year-old Vancouver lad is alleged to have beaten up a city woman and stolen $25 from her.

Police said that the Vancouver boy attacked a city woman as she walked along 98 street near 106 avenue Friday night and grabbed her purse. When she resisted he beat her about the face and head with his fists, knocking her down. She grabbed his leg and hung on until he beat her so badly that she was unable to retain her grip, they said. Then the boy ran away with the purse that contained $25.

Supplied with a description of the young desperado by the woman, Detectives Alex Bremner and William Willchinski arrested the Vancouver youth in a downtown cafe Friday night. Saturday the woman picked him out of a line-up and identified him as her assailant. He will appear before the juvenile court next Friday.

The other youth was arrested at his home by Det.-Sgt. Bert Petherham and Det. Murdo Munro following an investigation by them of the various breakins. He, too, will appear before the juvenile authorities.

CANADIAN CORPS BAND IS HEARD SUNDAY CONCERT

First public appearance of the Canadian Corps band since its organization in September was an outstanding feature of the concert arranged by the Gala Amateur League in the Empire theatre Sunday evening. Presented by kind permission of Col. W. L. Oliver, M.C., president of the Canadian Corps, the band is composed of 40 boys, all sons of returned men, and is under the leadership of Jimmie Robinson. Smart uniforms in black and gold with pill box hats are worn by the players. Walter Hunter manages the band, which will be heard at the Canadian Corps meeting in the Masonic Temple on Tuesday evening and in the Armistice parade on Saturday.

In addition to the band selections, amateur numbers composed the program at the concert. Harold Wright assisted in plans for the concert.
